Holocaust survivor, Antioch resident speaks at library

Edith Rogers speaks simply, candidly about 'No Childhood'

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Edith Rogers said she wouldn't prepare a specific speech when she addresses an audience at the Antioch Public Library on Thursday, March 25, at 7 p.m. No matter where questions lead her, her stories of surviving the Holocaust have one purpose: to prevent history from repeating itself.

Author of "No Childhood," Rogers speaks with simplicity and candor of unfathomable atrocities. She tells snapshot stories of specific instances as she remembers them.

"I don't tell them from my point of view now, as an adult, but as I lived them and with my thoughts as a child," Rogers said. "I wanted to write this in a way that makes it easy for middle school or junior high aged children to understand."

She said that while she hopes older teens and adults also will read her book, she wanted to make a lasting impression that could be shared even with younger generations.

Rogers said, "My main concern is that it might be forgotten, and then it could happen again. Those who lived and died in the camps were not the only victims of the Holocaust."

She tells stories of some of the victims: the people she called "Mom" and "Dad" who put themselves at risk to protect her; the school teacher who forged papers so she could attend school until it was discovered and the teacher disappeared; the dentist, Dr. B, who lived next door, who was "a big Nazi," who refused to let his wife tell, and who told "Dad" when it was time to have Edith stay with the nuns; and, of course, of her birth mother Mutti and brother Peter who died in Auschwitz.

Holocaust survivor: For more information about Rogers' engagement at the Antioch Public Library, call the library at 847-395-0874. An in depth profile of Rogers can be seen in the County Section of this newspaper. Read Rogers story/B1

In her book, Rogers tells of people watching the cattle cars go by. She was there with "Dad" to look for Mutti and Peter.

"Many jeered, laughed, whistled, threw insults and often rocks at the cars. Others turned discreetly away, able to always maintain their innocence by not seeing 'anything,'" she wrote. "But there were others. People who openly cried, cursed the Nazis at their own risk. And some pushed apples, a piece of bread, a boiled potato through the bars...Those were the Germans no one talked about after the war."

When the war ended, Rogers was 14 and she was given special permission to work for the U.S. Army, first as a mimeograph operator and later as an interpreter and secretary. She met her former husband, married and moved to the United States in 1952, living mostly in the Chicago area.

She said she stayed home while her children were young (she has four children, 10 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren), but then worked several "regular" jobs. Rogers said she has always been politically active, and worked as an election judge in the March 16 primary.

"Other books have been written, and there are films, but it was important for me to write this," Rogers said. "I'm afraid people will forget, because even to me, it was another lifetime. It's not running your life on a daily basis. There were people who were just afraid - afraid to help. They had loyalties that were split."

Politics: the name of the game

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

The biggest political story in the Village of Antioch has nothing to do with the March 16 primary. Accusations of "playing politics" littered discussions of the board of directors of the village of Antioch, particularly where the state of finances came into question.

Resident and businessman Bruce Gebert addressed the board and asked about the possibility of forming an Ad Hoc Committee to assist in straightening out the village's financial problems.

"I had read in the newspaper that Dorothy (Trustee Larson) had asked it to be put on the agenda, but it wasn't put on," he said. When Mayor Taso Maravelas indicated that he thought Gebert was out of order, Gebert replied, "I'm asking, as a taxpayer. As a businessman with a finance minor, any time we can get persons who want to help out, it's a win-win."

Additionally he asked if money that he and four others had paid to be connected to village water as Route 83 heads south of Route 173 was still in an account.

He said, "There was $450,000 paid for a recapture agreement. Is the money still in an account?"

Maravelas, who said he didn't like the idea of an ad hoc committee for finances, addressed both of Gebert's concerns with one reply.

"We are going to hire a CPA with knowledge and professionalism. That's why we got in this mess a long time ago. We've got to change our policies or go bust. You are too political. You come in here and give me a hard time."

Maravelas said under his breath that he thought Gebert had been "set up" to goad him, something Gebert denied after the board adjourned for executive session. Additionally, he said that he was in concurrence with the mayor that the village should spare no expense to clean up finances in short order.

Later under "parks and license" the committee Larson chairs, she reintroduced the idea of putting the ad hoc committee on the agenda for discussion.

"I was told that you, Mayor, and Trustee (Bob) Caulfield asked that it be removed," she said. "I have the right as a trustee to discuss this in meeting. I am formally asking that it be put on the agenda for the next meeting."

After the next committee's reports were presented, Maravelas brought up the issue again.

He said, "State statute says that only the mayor and administrator can make the agenda. You (to Larson) play politics so you can make a big splash in the newspapers. Stop playing politics."

From there, it was a shooting match.

Larson said she was trying to be open and honest and conduct the business of the village. Maravelas accused her of trying to hide something and said the village needs to hire professionals and not bring in people of the streets.

Trustee Scott Pierce countered, "If you don't want the books open to the public, what are you trying to hide? I can ask you the same question back."

Trustee Larry Hanson said he thought the village was close "to getting there" with regard to straightening out its finances, and that it would be a mistake to create an ad hoc committee.

"This isn't just cleaning a park or conducting an Easter egg hunt," he said. "This is very complicated."

Larson said she was shocked that village Administrator Alan Probst asked that the village's financial situation be kept from public and media scrutiny. She also said she was shocked that the village's audit was sent back without the full board being notified.

She was referencing a memo sent by Probst to the mayor and trustees.

In the first paragraph, Probst said that a cash analysis revealed an unrestricted operating funds deficit of $1.8 million as of Dec. 31, 2003.

"I am providing you this information via a sealed envelope versus bringing this up at a Village Board meeting because, at this point, I think it is better we make additional progress toward resolving this problem before exposing it to public scrutiny," it reads. "You may want to discuss this at a Meeting of the Whole where there is less media scrutiny."

The following day, the mayor said he didn't feel Probst had meant anything particularly by the comment, just it would be better to wait to fully discuss the matter once a finance director had been put in place. Probst is interviewing the three finalists this week.

Maravelas said he was very concerned about village's financial situation and said he thought problems went back at least as far as 1995 when he was on the finance committee. He said he had been denied access to some of the village's financial information at that time.

To the matter of the audit, Caulfield said that as finance chair it was his job to ask questions, and that is why the audit was returned.

To the ad hoc committee idea he said, "I can't get the board to fully support this problem. I respect the village residents, but I don't think it's a very effective way to fix problems. It's like OJ driving around the golf course looking for the murderer."

At the end of the meeting, Trustee Mary Turner said she felt all the trustees had the same goal, but just different ideas about what and how a plan should be implemented for the village to become fiscally sound.

Martini wins handily

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Incumbent candidate Judy Martini (R-Antioch) won her bid for the Lake County District 1 spot on the republican ticket hands down. With a total of 4,147 republican votes cast in the district, Martini ran away with 2,122, 51 percent.

"I'm just elated that the voters have given me their trust again, overwhelmingly," she said. "It's been an honor to serve the district for the past 10 years."

First-time candidate, for anything, Anita Merkel-Dyer garnered slightly over one-half of the votes Martini did with 1,265, 31 percent, cast in her favor.

Merkel-Dyer said, "This has been an extremely rewarding experience. It's nice to see that people in this district care about the issues, and came out to vote."

Wayne Blake took 18 percent of the vote with 757 throwing support in his direction.

"It's an uphill battle when you have a three-way race, and one of the three is the incumbent," Blake said. "I don't feel disappointed for myself, but I feel like I let the people who supported me down."

Both Merkel-Dyer and Blake said they thought it was a clean campaign and congratulated Martini on her success.

"Judy and I were always friends, and we always will be," Blake said. "With a campaign, you make of it what you will, and it was a great time, a lot of fun."

Merkel-Dyer said she plans to stay politically active now that she's "had a taste of it."

Blake, an elected commissioner of the Fox Waterway Agency, said he would have hated to have to resign that post if he had become the District 1 representative, but now he doesn't have to worry about that. "That would have been a really difficult thing to have to do," he said.

Martini is setting her sights for the general election. "I look forward to being victorious in the general election," she said.

District 36 future uncertain

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Fourteen votes have changed the future of students at Grass Lake School District 36, with that being the number by which its referendum failed. No definite decision has been made about the district, but one thing is certain: it won't go on as it has in the past.

Within the districts four precincts, 804 voters decided the districts fate. Of those, 395, 49 percent, voted yes, while 409, 51 percent voted against action that could have preserved the district that serves about 250 students.

After its previous failed attempts, the board of education had cut all but the basics. Earlier in the campaign process, Superintendent James Beveridge said the district would have no recourse but to increase class size to 40 pupils.

"We're not discussing cuts, because we've already cut everything," he said. "We don't have anything left except for reading, writing and arithmetic as it is."

Beveridge said the district would be $20,000 in the red by the end of the year.

Two weeks ago, officials from the state of Illinois met with Beveridge to discuss other options if the referendum fails.

"Our only other two possibilities are consolidation with another district, or the state could come in and dissolve the district and move the students to other schools," he said. "They don't want to do that either, but we're different from Round Lake because we only have 240 students."

Last spring, the referendum failed by 26 votes. This spring, that margin was narrowed, but not by enough.

To keep the school afloat, the district has had to issue tax anticipation warrants that allows the school to draw on future taxes.

Beveridge said, "This is not a good way of doing things. Eventually, it all catches up."

He said the district only receives about $95,000 in state aid and while the state claims that only 80 percent of Grass Lake's funding is local, he believes his district is 94 percent locally funded.

Schedules fill with warming weather

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

As the temperatures warm up, scheduling events and activities becomes a hot topic.

The Antioch Parks Department is taking registration for the Chicago Bulls/Junior Bulls Basketball Program that is scheduled to begin April 8. This is the official, fundamental skills camp of the six-time world champion Chicago Bulls.

The four-week program is geared toward boys and girls, kindergarten through eighth grade, who love the game and want to learn the fundamental skills necessary to become good basketball players.

Instructors teach shooting, passing, ball handling, defense and rebounding while stressing the importance of teamwork, discipline and respect.

Participants will receive an autographed Bulls player photo, T-shirt, membership in the Junior Bulls birthday club as well as some other surprises.

For more information, call the parks department at 847-395-2160.

PM&L Theatre has chosen an upbeat musical comedy, "Babes in Arms," to coincide with the lift spring gives. The show opens March 19 and runs through April 4.

The musical highlights include "My Funny Valentine," "Where or When," "The Lady Is a Tramp," "I Wish I Were in Love Again" and "Johnny One Note."

The story is said to revolve around a theater apprentice's conviction to mount an original review despite attempts by the theater owner to squash the effort. Also adding to the mix are an overbearing stage mother and a hack of a playwright with an inflated ego, though the show does go on in a resolution of comeuppance, reconciliation and romance.

Tickets are $13 for adults, and $10 for students and seniors. Box office hours are Monday through Thursday from 5:30-7:30 p.m., Saturday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., and 90 minutes prior to curtain on show dates.

Antioch VFW Sequoit Post 4551, a non-profit organization, is hosting its Spring Fling Craft Show Extravaganza on March 27-28, from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m.-4 p.m. on Sunday.

Food and fun is promised, in addition to items for all crafty tastes. Also included in the weekend's offerings are door prizes, one-of-a-kind items, pull-tabs, raffles and refreshments.

For more information, call Dorothee Himber at 847-395-6934.

District 34 programs, staff secure

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Students, parents, teachers and administrators of Antioch Community Consolidated District 34 can rest easier now that its referendum has been approved, securing its staff and programs.

More than 5,000 people within the district voted, with 2,735, 54 percent, cast in favor of a $.65 increase from its current taxation rate of $2.081 to $2.73.

"We won by over 400 votes," said Superintendent John Hunt. "That shows me that people in the communities of Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst stepped up for the kids."

Hunt said the board of education held its regular meeting before the polls had closed on election night and informally decided that staff would be informed they would stay on if the election turned out the way it did.

He said, "We, of course, have to formally vote and we couldn't do that without knowing the results. It looks like our staff is going to stay on and that our major programs are going to be reinstated."

Hunt said the board had determined some areas where things could be run more efficiently in the process of selecting program cuts, and that it may look to implement some changes.

Board President Steve Turner said, "I'm absolutely thrilled the community came together in support of education. So many people worked so hard, and it was a positive result. People are concerned about the welfare of the community."

Hunt said the only thing left to do now is move forward into the future.

"There's always room for improvement," he said. "Now we can really focus on that."

SCHOOL DIGEST

Author Ben Mikaelsen to visit AUGS

The students of Antioch Upper Grade School are anticipating the visit of author Ben Mikaelsen on Friday, March 19. He is an award-winning author of many books including "Touching Spirit Bear," "Petey," "Sparrow Hawk Red" and "Rescue Josh McGuire" which has been optioned for a movie. He spends many months traveling to schools each year with his fast-paced, humorous presentations that offer a fresh approach to writing.

Mikaelsen and his wife live in a log cabin near Bozeman, Mont., with a 700-pound black bear, Buffy, who they adopted and have raised for 20 years.

A presentation will be made at each grade level. The majority of the students have read or heard his books.

Mikaelsen will autograph students' books.

Petty hosts fun fair

W.C. Petty School will be sponsoring its annual Fun Fair on Saturday, March 20 from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Antioch Upper Grade School gymnasium.

Join the school for a day of games, prizes, crafts, teacher raffles, face painting, the famous cake Walk, as well as the new "Survivor" family game show. Come and see who will be the ultimate survivor with show times at noon and 1:30 p.m.

Lunch will be available to purchase in the cafeteria.

The Fun Fair is sponsored by the W.C. Petty PTO and it invites all students, families and the community to attend. Children must be accompanied by and adult.

For more information call 838-8100.

General Assembly scholarships available

Students pursuing an education at one of the Illinois state universities in the fall of 2004 should consider applying for one of the eight scholarships that will be granted by Rep. JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch).

To be qualified for on the Illinois General Assembly Public Affairs Scholarships, students must reside within the 61st Legislative District and received acceptance into one of the state universities as a full-time student for the school year beginning in the fall of 2004.

The scholarships include full tuition, including summer school, but do not include the costs of room and board. Four of the scholarships are earmarked for students who will be attending the University of Illinois, while the other four scholarships are for schools like Northern and Western.

Those interested in applying should call Osmond's Antioch office at 847-838-6200. The deadline to return applications is April 1.

Eligibility is not limited to current high school students. College students are eligible as well.

Yearbook staff seeks pictures

Emmons School yearbook staff welcomes submitted pictures from parents, grandparents, friends or siblings that show Emmons students and that would be appropriate for the yearbook.

The staff asks that pictures be clear and not blurry. Pictures will not be returned so do not send anything that will be missed or for which there is not a duplicate.

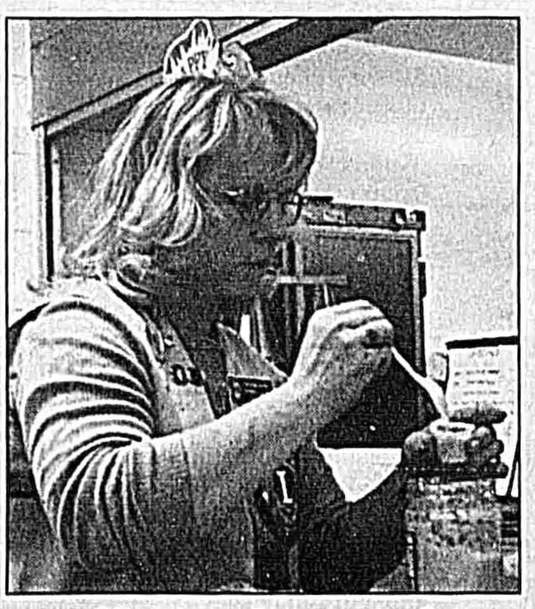

Pictures should be sent to the school via students or regular mail to: Yearbook Pictures, Emmons School, 24226 W. Beach Grove Road, Antioch, IL 60002.

Early childhood screening

Antioch Community Consolidated District 34 offers early childhood developmental screening.

Parents with concerns should consider this. Developmental screening is a brief series of activities and observations designed to identify children who may have a potential problem that requires further assessment.

Screening is available to children between the ages of 3-5 years old and who have not yet entered kindergarten within District 34. To schedule an appointment, call the special education office at 847-838-8422.

ANTIOCH

DUI

James L. Cox, 24, of 709 Park Ave., Libertyville, was arrested for DUI on March 13 at 3:50 a.m. on Main Street at Orchard.

Police locked him traveling 51 mph in a 20-mph zone, as well as weaving and crossing the centerline. The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Cox's breath when he was stopped. He failed all field sobriety tests requested of him.

Cox was arrested and issued a citation for DUI. He agreed to a Breathalyzer test that returned a .155 blood alcohol concentration result. He was issued additional citations for speeding, improper lane usage and DUI over .08.

He was released on personal recognizance pending his April 13 court date.

Antioch Police Department arrested Scott R. Dunbar, 38, of 26270 W. Hickory, Ingleside, for DUI after assisting the Kenosha County Sheriff's Office with the stop just south of the border on Route 83.

Kenosha police initiated the stop in Wisconsin, but Dunbar didn't stop until after he had crossed back to the Illinois side. Antioch police detected the moderate odor of alcoholic beverage as field sobriety tests were witnessed, all of which Dunbar failed.

Kenosha police made the arrest, but later said Dunbar would not be taken into custody and Antioch police administered a portable breath test that returned the result of .119 blood alcohol concentration and arrested Dunbar.

He was issued a citation for DUI and agreed to a regular Breathalyzer test with .133 blood alcohol concentration the result. Dunbar was issued an additional citation for DUI over .08, posted his driver's license and $100 bond pending his April 13 court date.

Suspended driver's license

Michael C. Frederickson, 28, of 14 Rushmore Road, Fox Lake, was arrested for driving while suspended on March 14 at 4:28 p.m. on Route 173 at Route 45.

He was locked traveling 70 mph in a 45-mph zone. A check of his identifiers through LEADS/SOS came back with information that his driver's license was suspended.

Frederickson was arrested and issued citations for speeding and driving while suspended. He was released on personal recognizance pending court.

No valid driver's license

Adam A. Fuller, 35, of 292 Windmill Creed Road, was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license on March 12 at 7:37 a.m. on Deep Lake Road at Depot Street.

He was locked traveling 60 mph in a 45-mph zone. A check of his identifiers through LEADS/NCIC revealed his Wisconsin driver's license was revoked.

Fuller was arrested and issued citations for speeding and driving while revoked. He paid $100 cash bond pending his March 24 court date.

Kendall R. Mendenhall, 25, of 277 Oakridge Court, was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license on March 10 at 11:06 p.m. on Route 173 at Grimm Road.

He was stopped for having only one working taillight. A check through LEADS/NCIC came back with information that his driver's license expired in April 2000.

Mendenhall was arrested and issued citations for having only one taillight and driving with no valid driver's license. He was released on personal recognizance pending his April 28 court date.

St. Pat's parade Lake Villa's 11th

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
bbeitscher@lakelandmedia.com

This year was Lake Villa's largest St. Patrick's Day Parade ever, with over 50 participants (not counting the fire trucks at the end).

As usual, and especially on the cusp of an election, the parade was well-stocked with politicians, including active candidates Rep. Phil Crane (R-Wauconda), State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa), Lake County Coroner Jim Wipper, County Recorder of Deeds Dana Sabonjian and Warren Blake, a Republican primary candidate for County District 1.

The highlight of the parade was the introduction of the Lake Villa Historical Society's new float, a detailed reproduction of the Lehmann Mansion, complete with its famous columned porch and towering pine trees.

Parade music was scarce, with the only live music provided by the Midlothian Bagpipers and Peter Kapp, billed as a "one-man band." Recorded music accompanied the McNulty Irish Dancers. No school bands participated.

The parade was marshaled this year, as in the past, by Maurice Hartnett, founder of the parade. He now lives in Wisconsin, but his participation has become a tradition.

This year's parade was coordinated by Betty Burns, who made her parade direction debut in 2001, organizing the Lake Villa Centennial Parade, the largest parade ever held in Lake Villa.

The parade was followed by the traditional corned beef-and-cabbage dinner at the VFW hall. The dinner was cooked by members of the village board of trustees, and served by members of the community, including Mayor Frank Loffredo.

CorLands finds 16-acre shortfall

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

By the time Antioch grows to a population of 10,554 people, something expected to happen sooner rather than later, the village of Antioch would have a shortfall of about 16 acres. This figure is based on the National Recreation and Park Association's formula that 10 acres (six acres of community and four acres of neighborhood) park space is required for every 1,000 people.

Last year, CorLands offered up its services to the village of Antioch to study its parks and open spaces and create a report that could then be used help the village either get state money or go to referendum, if necessary, to ensure there would be enough open space in the future.

"A 16-acre shortfall isn't too bad," said Erica Coslor when she made her presentation before the village board.

Coslor recommended that the village try to acquire more land now before it is either all developed or becomes too expensive to purchase.

The report divided Antioch's 300 acres into 12 neighborhoods and assessed each area individually, based on walking distance to parks and natural dividers such as streams and ponds in addition to manmade dividers such as railroad tracks and highways.

Overall, Antioch has 26 acres of existing neighborhood parkland, 13 acres of mini-park land, 2.1 miles of greenway and 245 acres of undeveloped open space that includes 112.5 acres slated for future active recreation use.

The report said, "Well aware of the drastic need for expansion to meet with current and future needs, the Department of Parks and Recreation has demonstrated a strong commitment to increase the total acreage of parks and open space as well as to improve existing facilities."

It concluded that while nine of the 12 planning areas are underserved by active neighborhood parkland, that this number would drop to three by 2008 with the plans that are in place. It did recommend that Antioch extend its east-west trail enhance park access in several locations.

Trustee Dorothy Larson said, "It's very nice to see that we are on the right track."

Trustee Scott Pierce said that though the presentation is very brief, the report is very thorough.

After the meeting he said, "Everybody should be credited. It's very evident that the parks board and previous administration did a very good job securing parks space."

Parks offers birthday parties

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Looking for a place to have a dozen children attend a birthday party? The Antioch Parks and Recreation Department is now offering organized, theme-inspired parties on Saturdays and Sundays.

"We always get a lot of requests for birthday parties, so we decided to put some theme packages together that are appropriate for a nice age range of children (4-10 years old)," said Laurie Stahl, parks director.

There are eight themes: super sports, lively luau, swingin' safari, princess tea party, crazy crafts, breezy picnic, music mania and flower power. Appropriate props, costumes, banners and paper goods are supplied for each party. Stahl said seasonal and holiday parties are available upon request.

For most of the themes, one craft and three games (complete with prizes) is part of the package.

Stahl said, "We think this is a really nice addition to the programs and services we offer. It fits in well with a lot of the other things we do."

Parties are open to both residents and non-residents for $150 and $170 respectively. Add-ons such as cakes, invitations and goodie bags are available for an additional cost.

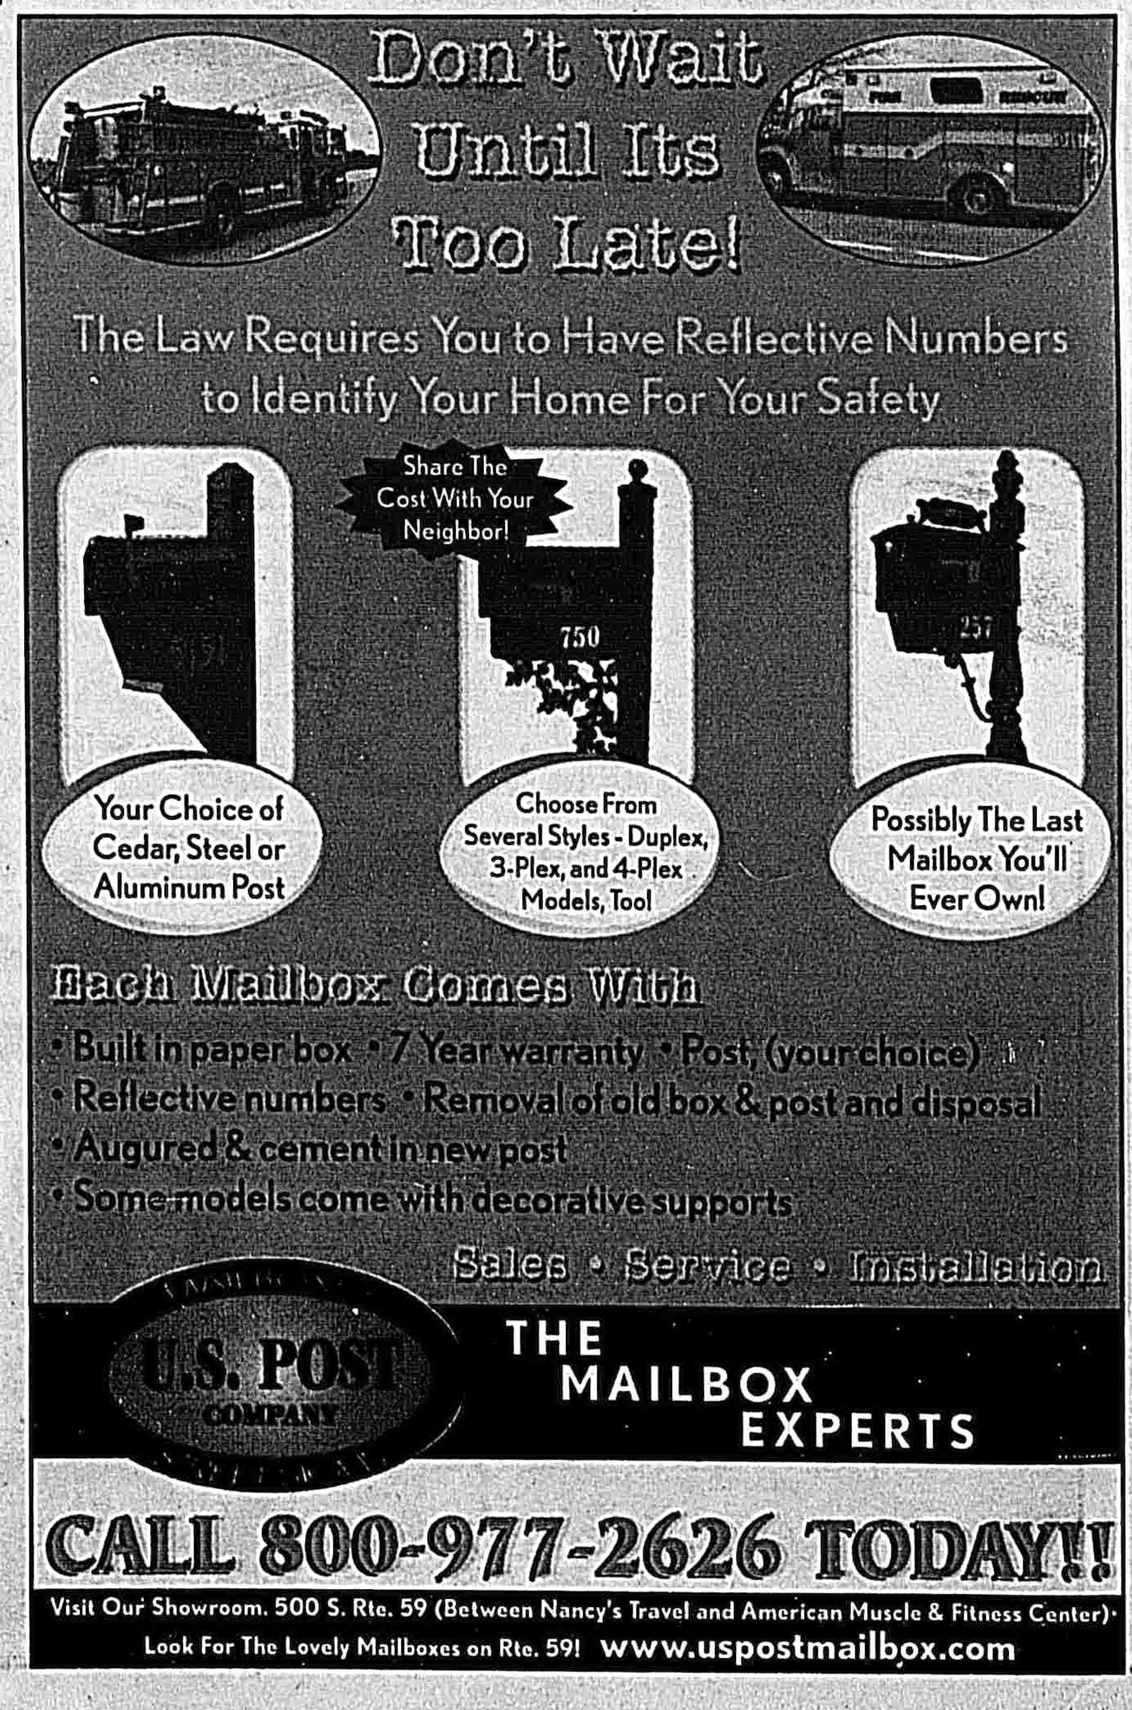

Two weeks lead-time is required when making a reservation. A $50 non-refundable deposit is due at registration that will be applied toward the party total.

"We are limiting party size to a maximum of 12 children," Stahl said.

Parties can be held on either Saturday or Sunday, year around, from 1-2:30 p.m. or from 3:30-5 p.m.

Early reservations are recommended. Dates of standing parks department events may be blacked out.

Get into the Driver's Seat!

NASCAR 3D: The IMAX Experience is racing in select IMAX Theatres and Sets the record for the widest domestic IMAX opening release.

Warner Bros. Pictures, IMAX Corporation and the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) has released NASCAR 3D: The IMAX Experience exclusively in select IMAX® theatres. The film is already setting records as the widest IMAX domestic release ever, with 68 theatres revving up for opening day. The film will be presented on the world's largest screens, up to eight stories high, with crystal clear images and 12,000 watts of pulsating digital surround sound.

Narrated by Kiefer Sutherland and sponsored by AOL for Broadband, NASCAR 3D: The IMAX Experience provides an insider's perspective of America's number one spectator sport. Through the magic of IMAX® 3D technology, audiences will be transported into the driver's seat and experience the heart-pumping action on the track, in the pit and behind the scenes. Dale Earnhardt Jr., third generation NASCAR driver, says "The footage portrays NASCAR in its truest sense. It's really loud, which is exactly what it's like when you're inside the car." Jimmie Johnson, the 2003 series runner up, adds, "If you want to know what it's really like to be a NASCAR driver, this film is a must-see experience."

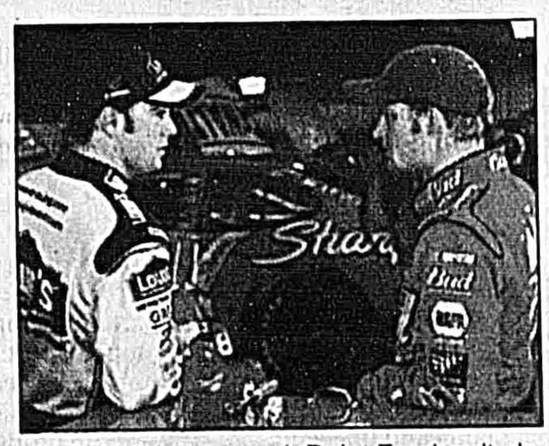

"As our first original IMAX film, we are thrilled that NASCAR 3D: The IMAX Experience, will have the widest domestic release in IMAX's history," said Dan Fellman, president, domestic distribution, Warner Bros. Pictures. "This record is a testament to the appeal of NASCAR and how this film lends itself to the scale and power of IMAX."

NASCAR 3D: The IMAX Experience will be playing at the following IMAX 3D Theatres : Addison — Marcus IMAX Theatre; Chicago — Navy Pier IMAX Theatre; Lincolnshire — Regal IMAX Theatre at CityPark; Woodridge — Cinemark IMAX Theatre at Seven Bridges.

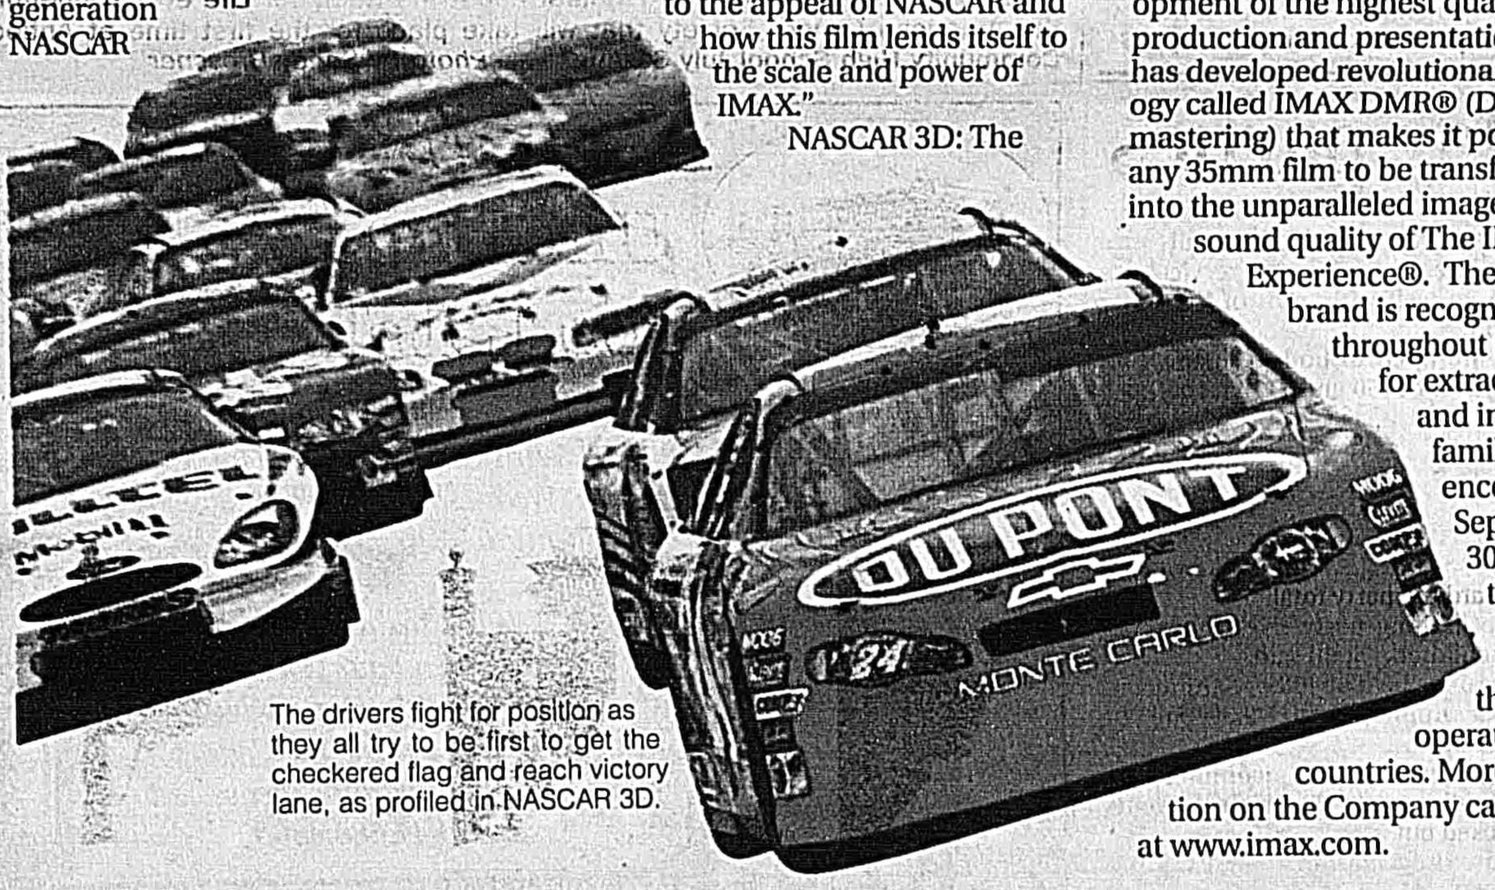

Founded in 1967, IMAX Corporation is one of the world's leading entertainment technology companies. IMAX's businesses include the creation and delivery of the world's best cinematic presentations using proprietary IMAX® and IMAX 3D technology, and the development of the highest quality digital production and presentation. IMAX has developed revolutionary technology called IMAX DMR® (Digital Remastering) that makes it possible for any 35mm film to be transformed into the unparalleled image and sound quality of The IMAX Experience®. The IMAX brand is recognized throughout the world for extraordinary and immersive family experiences. As of September 30, 2003, there were more than 235 IMAX theatres operating in 35 countries. More information on the Company can be found at www.imax.com.

YMCA Camp Duncan Day Camp is where great leaders are made

YMCA Camp Duncan's Day Camp program offers children in Lake and McHenry Counties, entering grades kindergarten through ninth, a full day of quality camp programming. Each child's camp experience will include a variety of well planned and age appropriate activities such as swim lessons, recreational swimming, boating lessons, group games, sports, arts and crafts, camp songs, archery, outdoor education and adventure programs.

"As a full facility day and residential camp on 278 acres, our camp property lends- itself to a variety of exciting indoor and outdoor activities; no other day camp program in the area can off the variety of programming or the convenient hours for such an affordable price," stated Colleen Foley, Day Camp Director. The program begins each da 8:00am and concludes at 4:00pm. Parents have the options of taking advantage of extended care from 6:30am to 6:00pm at no additional charge and bus transportation is available from several local schools.

YMCA Camp Duncan is accredited by the American Camping Association, which means that Camp Duncan maintains the highest standards regarding program quality, health and safety issues. Each camp counselor is selected based on their skills, maturity, creativity and sensitivity to the needs of camp participants. Counse- lors are required to complete a thorough training program prior to working with campers. Parents can rest assured that their children will be well cared for while attending YMCA Camp Duncan.

Summer 2004 camp sessions are each one week long, beginning June 7 and ending

August 27. Registration is now open and sessions are filling quickly. Space is available in all sessions and registrations are handled on a "first come, first serve" basis. Once sessions fill, waiting lists are established.

Colleen Foley, Day Camp Director, is available to give scheduled tours, answer questions and talk at greater length about the abundance of wonderful and safe opportunities for growth, learning, and fun at Camp Duncan. Visit Ca m*p Duncan's Information Meetings

Weekend warriors for nature needed

Become a weekend warrior for nature with the Lake County Forest Preserves. Conservation volunteer opportunities are available nearly every weekend year-round. These conservation workdays are an opportunity to give back to the environment and enjoy camaraderie with other dedicated volunteers. If you're iinterested in volunteering and doing hands-on work to save some of Lake County's natural areas, grab some work gloves and get involved. Weekend warriors are needed throughout the winter.

Volunteers assist with the removal of exotic plants that choke out native species. No prior experience is necessary and all ages are invited. Groups of four or more should call ahead to 847-968-3329 so that Forest Preserve staff can make certain there will be enough equipment for everyone. Volunteers should dress for the weather, wear long pants and sturdy shoes or boots, and bring work gloves.

Contact Tom Smith, Volunteer Coordinator, Outreach and Stewardship, at 847-968-3329 or via e-mail at tasmith@co.lake.il.us for directions to any of the workday sites, as meeting places tend to be off the beaten path.

Conservation workdays will be held in March at these Forest Preserves throughout Lake County.

Clearing my head

Jeff Zachary
FROM A TO ZACHARY

After an exceptionally stressful week at the newspaper, I woke up on Saturday and headed out for the McHenry Dam.

It was 6:30 a.m. and I was trying to clear up some of the negative thoughts that were cluttering up my 'hungover' mind—such as how I was going to pay the mortgage and my car payment—after losing a week's pay at the riverboat casino on Friday night.

Upon arriving, three Canadian Geese flew in a v-shaped pattern toward the woods and so I followed like one of their flock.

Not more than a hundred yards onto the trail, I had the eerie feeling that I had been transported back into time, not just a hundred years or even a thousand years but millions of years back into time. Many Great Blue Herons were flying all around me reminding me of those big dinosaur type birds that you see in Steven Spillberg's prehistoric movies.

Strange looking trees growing out of slimy green swamps along with loud screeching sounds from the wildlife complimented the effect. Even the Rain Forests of Guatemala, which I hiked many years earlier, were not as intimidating as the sights and sounds I was experiencing.

I was so fascinated watching the Great Blue Herons that I almost walked right into three beautiful deer. I was so close I could have touched them.

Peculiarly, my mind wandered off to a village board meeting that I attended the previous week, and I swear I could still hear the mayor whining about an article I wrote about his village expanding and creating more traffic problems for Lake County.

While walking along, I came upon some fishermen on the shores of Lake Defiance. I waved towards them but I didn't speak because I did not want to spook the fish that might be swimming close by. Sitting down on an old wooden pier bench I was joined by a Red Winged Blackbird who performed a mini-concert for me.

I then proceeded along the trail enjoying the sights and sounds, when my mind again shifted back to my job and I could picture a certain police chief still complaining that I had compared his police officers and police dogs sniffing for drugs at the high school to something out of a police state.

But thank God, I was brought back to reality by the song birds singing, deer dancing, rabbits running, fish jumping, beavers biting, squirrels climbing, and myself laughing and loving every second of it.

Being a newspaper reporter may have its stressful moments, —but walking through the woods and then writing a column about it— is sure not one of them.

Fiction Writing Department presents 'Story Week Festival Of Writers'

When the Fiction Writing Department at Columbia College Chicago planted seeds for its first Story Week in 1997, the few hundred people who attended enjoyed a sprinkling of high-powered authors reading and conversing over a period of five days. One of the featured readers that year was Jane Hamilton, now a two-time Oprah Book Club selected author and multi-award winner for "The Book of Ruth; Map of the World," and others. When she returns this year to read with fellow Wisconsin resident and award-winn ing writer Lorrie Moore (Who Will Run the Frog Hospital?; Birds of America), she will have witnessed a literary landscape run wild with readings, music or dance performances, exhibits, and verbal explorations of any artistic form that hints of story.

According to Columbia College Fiction Writing Chair Randall Albers, the 8th Annual Story Week Festival of Writers promises to be the most ambitious celebration his department has undertaken yet. "For one thing, we've stretched a week into 10 days, and packed it with more than 20 events!" he adds. This year's theme, "Story and the Sister Arts," opens up the floodgates for audiences to enjoy story in all of its genres. All Story Week events are open to the general public, and nearly all are free (two events will charge a $3 cover).

In addition to Jane Hamilton, Lorrie Moore, Colson Whitehead, and John McNally, there will be many other luminaries featured in the festival.

Many of the Story Week events will take place in Loop locations (like Columbia College, the Harold Washington Library, the Museum of Contemporary Photography, and the Chicago Cultural Center.) But in order to attract those who prefer more casual settings, festival planners have also placed some fun events in neighborhood venues like the Chopin Theatre (in Wicker Park), The Empty Bottle (in the Ukranian Village), Wrigleyville's famed rock club Metro, and its adjoining Smart Bar, and Cafe Penelope (on the Near West side).

One of the highlights of Story Week is an evening of "literary rock & roll" at club Metro, which this year is planned for Wednesday, March 24. Earlier that day, aspiring writers may wish to attend The Next Step: A Publishing Panel featuring tips from magazine editor and publishing expert Elizabeth Crow; Paris Review Executive Editor Brigid Hughes; Grove/Atlantic editor Amy Hundley; producer of WBEZ-FM's Stories on Stage Kathe Telingator; author Harry Mark Petrakis; and literary agent Stephanie Von Hirschberg.

Rod Slemmons, director of the Museum of Contermporary Photography, will host a weeklong exhibition with a focus on image and Text.

Story Week will also host a "State of the Arts Day", a showcase of readings, conversations, performances, and exhibitions by Illinois artists.

Finally, this year's festival was planned to overlap with the annual AWP Co n-ference, which brings some 3,000 writers, educators and scholars from all over the world, to the city. On Saturday, March 27, AWP and Story Week attendees will come together at the Palmer House Hilton to hear readings by Lorrie Moore and Jane Hamilton.

Celebrating a Leap of Faith

Leslie Clazier-Werner
LES ON LIFE

Every Leap Year our family has a big celebration because one person took a small leap of faith.

One Feb. 29 an adoption worker by the name of Gina listened to her heart, and changed our lives with a phone call.

She convinced us, childless and grieving a recent miscarriage, to take on an instant family—along with an ongoing cavalcade of parenting predicaments.

There were no rehearsals before my husband and I were expected to knock 'em dead with our version of "Parenting Improv." It was only 48 chaotic hours from Gina's phone call to the delivery of our first two kids.

There I was holding two adorable brothers. Better yet, I had no stretch marks and only a mild case of jet lag. It was too good to be true—until the boys proceeded to trash our hotel room, and any preconception that mothers wear pearls and pumps.

Now I wasn't complaining. I was too busy trying to figure out how to play mommy with the Pandora's box of childcare items Gina gave me.

Out went my briefcase. It was replaced by a blue "Ducky" diaper bag full of strange thing-a-ma-jigs like a baby sling, "num nums", "my bi," and blankies.

And hubby wasn't much help. When we were faced with our first dirty diaper, the man of the double room at the Holiday Inn decided to go on an extended hunting trip for car seats at the local Wal-Mart.

I was left eyeing a 1-year-old in dire need of attention, while chasing the 2-year-old around in am impromptu game of capture the loaded diaper. Finally, the oldest not only tired of our game, but watching me awkwardly try to gift-wrap his brother. Big brother could barely talk, but, luckily, he sure could do a mean diaper.

To make matters worse, after a few days our new daddy had to fly back to work. That left me as sole caretaker until we were allowed to take our instant family across state lines.

Fortunately, a bellhop took pity on me after catching a gander of me with the kids. By that time our hotel room looked like marauding Dr. Seuss fans had ransacked it, and I could pass for the theatre floor after a kiddie matinee.

Now I could load the kids and dirty laundry in my shopping cart for the daily trip to the grocery and Laundromat. I just needed to wheel through the front lobby, pass the business clientele while they dropped their complimentary breakfasts into their laps, and cross the four lanes of a desert highway.

Although I've been parenting for 12 years now, it still feels a lot like those first few weeks of becoming a family. After all, raising kids requires a daily leap of faith, a good dose of improvisation, and a diehard sense of humor. I'm sure glad we took that call.

Mushroom-barley soup: good eating in a bowl

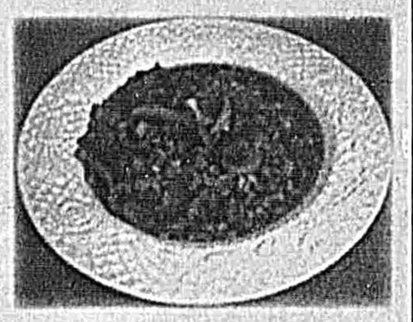

Tom Witom

COOKING BY THE BOOK

"Café Max & Rosie's: Vegetarian Cooking with Health and Spirit" (Ten Speed Press), by Max and Rosie Beeby, captures many of the recipes that have made this 12-year-old Asheville, N.C., restaurant so popular.

As the authors explain, their cooking style is simple yet creative with an emphasis on natural flavors.

Their "Shiitake Mushroom and Barley Soup" is a good example. It's a full-bodied soup, perfect with salad and bread. You'll also find plenty of useful recipes for pastas, whole grains, soy, salads and dressings.

Shiitake Mushroom and Barley Soup

1 to 2 Tbl. light sesame oil
1/2 white onion, chopped
4 shiitake mushrooms, stemmed and thinly sliced
1 carrot, chopped
2 Tbl. tamari
1/2 cup pearled barley, rinsed
2 bay leaves
5 cups stock or water
Sea salt and freshly ground black paper
Sliced scallion greens for garnish

1) Heat the oil in a large soup pot over high heat. Add the onion and quick saute for 2 or 3 minutes. Add the mushrooms, carrot and 1 tablespoon of the tamari. Saute for a few minutes, until the carrot brightens. Add the barley and the remaining 1 tablespoon of the tamari and stir. Add the bay leaves and stock. 2) Cover, bring to a boil, and simmer for at least 1 hour. 3) Add salt and pepper and remove the bay leaves. Serve in individual bowls garnished with sliced scallion.

(Serves 4 to 6)

Matching cheese with a complimentary wine

Here are sample cheese plates that you can serve, along with matching wines:

Sharp Cheddar and Cabernet Sauvignon: Cheddar is a sharp and rich cow's-milk cheese. The tannins and the strong fruit flavor in cabernet match the intensity of the cheese.

Mild Cheddar and Chardonnay: The crisp acidity and fruit flavors of chardonnay nicely cleanse the buttery bites of mild cheddar.

Fresh Chevre with Sun-Dried Tomato and Red Pepper and Syrah: The sun-dried tomato and red pepper lend a spiciness to this otherwise mildly tangy goat cheese. Syrah has a touch of spiciness to match.

Brie and Riesling: The off-dry white wine does a good job of washing down a smooth, creamy and mild goat-milk brie.

Saint Andre: This low-salt, triple-cream cheese has about 75 percent butterfat. It is very smooth and very rich and calls for a big white, such as a white burgundy or a fruit-forward chardonnay.

morsels

Q: Is there a machine that will chop celery and onions in large quantities without turning them into mush?

A: "Large quantities" and food choppers aren't a match. While there are hand-powered as well as electronic choppers readily available, they are small-capacity — 3 cups or less. For large quantities of food, a processor does the best job. The secrets to using them successfully are to cut the food into uniform size pieces and to pulse the machine on and off in quick bursts.

Q: I'm always tempted to stock up on fresh cranberries and cranberry products, but I'm not sure how long they will keep, so I don't. Please give me some guidelines on storage.

A: Even in the best harvest years, cranberry season is only for a few months, October through December. Cindy Taccini, manager of the Ocean Spray test kitchen, recommends refrigerating fresh cranberries in their original bag for up to two weeks or freezing them up to a year. Homemade cranberry sauce can be covered and refrigerated up to a week. Once opened, canned cranberry sauce can be covered and refrigerated up to two weeks.

Tied To The Past III

by Dennis M. Downes

The Lake County Discovery Museum, Lakewood Forest Preserve, Rt. 176 & Fairfield Road, Wauconda, cordially invites you to attend the special showing of "Tied To The Past III" by Dennis M. Downes, the internationally known Lake County artist.

The 16-foot sculpture of the Indian Trail Marker Tree will be unveiled at the opening. Additionally, over 20 original paintings, tapestries and sculptures will be on display in the main room of the museum.

There will be an artist reception Sunday, April 4 from 1-4 p.m. with Downes. Please feel free to bring your friends and relatives.

The exhibit runs through May. The last exhibit was viewed by over 3,000 visitors. For information, call The Discovery Museum at 847-968-3400 or Downes Studio at 847-395-8875.

West Side Story

You'll never stop saying this is the most sensational musical of our lifetime

Music by Bernstein. Lyrics by Sondheim. Choreography by Jerome Robbins. What more can be said about one of the most powerful and popular musicals in the history of Broadway? The musical telling of Romeo and Juliet is set on the streets of New York City, where the Jets and Sharks fight for their own patch of the West Side. Somehow, love grows for Tony and Maria among the heartbreaking landscape of back alleys and fire escapes. Their love is brought to life with such famous songs as "Maria," "Tonight," and "I Feel Pretty." Don't miss the emotion, the intensity, the sheer energy that has made "West Side Story," America's story.

Unstoppable Hubbard Street Dance Chicago shines brightly

Hubbard Street Dance Chicago performed "Rooster," a local premiere.

A revival of "Diphthong" demonstrated Hubbard Street Dance Chicago's creative genius.

CRITIC'S CHOICE
By Tom Witom

Even as Hubbard Street Dance Chicago signs off on its 25th anniversary, the kinetically charged company is as buoyant as ever, pleasing audiences with creative new material and drawing from a repertoire of solid gold hits.

Artistic director Jim Vincent's hot performers, showcased in their sleek new home at the Harris Theater for Music and Dance in Millennium Park, are outdoing themselves with three ambitious back-to-back programs.

"Rooster," a wonderfully playful 1991 work by British choreographer Christopher Bruce, made its Chicago premiere during the March 9-14 "Dance by the Decades" program. Set to the music of the Rolling Stones, Christopher Tierney is puffed up with unforgettable attitude.

Tierney was joined opening-night in this dance sequence by Jay Franke, Erin Derstine, Cheryl Mann, Taryn Kaschock, Shannon Alvis, Carlaine Katsuyoshi, Patrick Simoniello, Joseph Pantaleon and Jamy Meek.

More razzle-dazzle followed with "Diphthong," a new work by Brian Enos that was set to the syncopated beat of music influenced by Zap Mama, a Belgium-based band with African roots. The six gravity-defying athletic dancers who performed this intriguing piece were Lisa Keskitalo, Julia Wollrab, Alvis, Franke, Pantaleon and Meek.

Opening night concluded with two engaging revivals, long-time favorites "SUPER STRAIGHT is coming down" and "The 40s." Choreography for "The 40s," a salute to the Big Band era, was by Lou Conte, the company's founder.

Upcoming:

•"Explosive Ensembles" (through March 21). Included will be a premiere of Trey McIntre's "Full Grown Men"; Marguerite Donlon's "Reverse Deconstruct," created by Hubbard Street Dance Chicago in 2001; and "Minus 16" by Israeli choreographer Ohad Naharin.

•"Rhythm & Romance" (March 23-28). Included will be "Rooster," "Diphthong" and Susan Marshall's "Kiss." There also will be a revival of Kevin O'Day's "Quartet for IV (and Sometimes One, Two or Three)."

March is Youth Art Month

Art month helping children develop skills for life

Emma Nelson's Pikachu drawing

Budget deficits and education budget cutbacks are a continuing concern and reality. In fact, educators and many parents are disturbed that arts education will be painted out of the picture and kids will lose a canvas for their creativity. Each March since 1961, Youth Art Month, emphasizes the value of art education for all children, while encouraging public support for quality art programs. It also provides a forum for acknowledging skills that are fostered through experience in the visual arts that are not possible in other areas of study.

Sponsored by the Council for Art Education (CFAE), the observance spotlights art education through children,s art exhibits at state capitols and other public facilities, thousands of local activities and exhibits and has the endorsement and support of many U.S. Senators and Congressmen and state legislators who speak out on behalf of art education.

Educators and parents will tell you that arts education is extremely important to a child's well-being. It helps to develop their self-discipline, individuality, self-esteem, a sense of pride in self-expression, self-confidence and improves overall academic performance. There is also a level of personal satisfaction in the arts that stimulates a child to learn and to want to keep on learning.

Studies on brain development have shown that experiences with art and color help children learn other subjects such as reading and math. And one of the most important aspects of art was proven in the results of extensive studies where students who participated in the arts scored higher on SAT tests regardless of socio-economic status, as reported in a 1999 report from the President,s Committee on the Arts and Humanities.

A number of trade and professional organizations, as well as individual corporations, are active participants in and supporters of CFAE and Youth Art Month. Nintendo of America Inc. and Kids, WB! are sponsoring the "Kids, WB! Poké Card Creator Contest," open to children between the ages of 5-15, who will have a chance to become an official Pokémon trading card illustrator. They can choose from one of five favorite Pokémon (Pikachu, Mudkip, Treecko, Torchic or Wurmple) and draw, paint or color that Pokémon in an action pose, along with a background scene.

Five Grand Prize winners will have their cards produced and inserted into exclusive Kids, WB! Pokémon Trading Card Game booster packs, and each will win a $500 Target GiftCard.

The contest runs from February 16 to April 10, 2004 and entry forms can be downloaded from www.KidsWB.com and are available at all Target snack bar areas.

An art contest such as this and other outlets for creative expression help children discover the creative power within themselves, which will help them learn to view the world as a place filled with possibilities, one where they can shape and express their own vision. This voyage of discovery could quite literally be...in the cards.

PM&L presents 'Babes In Arms'

PM&L is celebrating live musical theatre with their production of "Babes In Arms" by Rodgers and Hart on the PM&L Stage, 877 Main St., Antioch Ill. on March 19, 20, 26, 27 and April 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. and March 21, 28 and April 4 at 2:30 p.m.

This quintessential "Hey, kids, let's put on a show!" musical boasts what is considered to be one of the greatest scores ever written for the stage. Set in a summer stock theatre the plot concerns the apprentices' conviction to mount the original review they've created while dodging the underhanded attempts of the surly theatre owner to squash their efforts at every turn. Further complications are provided by the over-bearing stage mother of a beautiful ex-child star and the inflated ego of a hack southern playwright. But of course the show must go on, and so it does in a resolution of comeuppance, reconciliation and romance.

Musical highlight of the show are "My Funny Valentine," "Where Or When," "The Lady Is A Tramp," "I Wish I Were In Love Again," and "Johnny One Note." A New York critic said in 1937 "A score that is altogether superb, fresh, youthful, and utterly captivating" and this is just as true in 2004.

Tickets are going fast. Call 847-395-3055 for reservations or come to the box office. Box office hours are Mon.-Thurs. 5:30-7:30 p.m., Sat. 11 a.m-2 p.m., and 1 1/2 hours before showtime on production dates.

NEW RELEASES

These films are currently playing at local theaters. An average of 6 new reviews a week as well as recent releases can be found under Current Movie Reviews at www.reelmoviecritic.com.

opening this week

Dawn of the Dead (R): With the tagline, "When there's no more room in hell, the dead will walk the earth," and the self-descriptive title of "Dawn of the Dead," this qualifies as a bloodthirsty zombie flick.

Sarah Polley ("My Life Without Me") is a nurse caught in the middle of a chaotic situation, where zombies have begun to take over the world and attack the living. She and a small group of survivors, with the help of police officer Ving Rhames ("Undisputed"), find temporary shelter at a huge shopping mall in Everett, Washington. They realize that time is running out and make plans to escape to what they believe is a true safe haven on an island.

Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind (R): Jim Carrey and his girlfriend Kate Winslet ("Titanic") undergo a medical procedure to erase unwanted memories. As he goes through the process he changes his mind and stores some memories in a special place in his mind. This has unintended consequences, and leads to much of the humor in the film.

Also stars Tom Wilkinson ("In the Bedroom") as the psychiatrist, with Kirsten Dunst ("Spider-Man") as his receptionist, and Mark Ruffalo ("In the Cut") and Elijah Wood ("LOTR: Return of the King") as lab technicians.

Jersey Girl (PG-13): We're good with Jennifer Lopez in most of her films but Ben Affleck usually leaves us wanting for more ("Paycheck"). What makes this film worth two hours of your life, which is far more important than the cost of a movie ticket, is that Liv Tyler ("LOTR: Return of the King") and George Carlin have major roles in it and Kevin Smith ("Jay & Silent Bob Strike Back") is the director.

Taking Lives (R): Like Al Pacino in "Insomnia," Angelina Jolie moves north of the border to help solve a crime. Al went to Alaska and Angelina is a hotshot FBI profiler who goes to Montreal to hunt down a killer, who assumes the identity of his/her victims. Normally, you would say "his" but after "Monster," it could be "her." Angelina has to adjust to a strange location and get along with a police team, where she is a definite outsider.

Ethan Hawke ("Training Day"), a museum employee, helps in the effort by trying to find an art professor wanted for some major thefts.

My Top 10 Movies of 2003

By Pam Singleton

I laughed more at the movies in 2003 than I did in 2002. Perhaps it had to do with 9/11. George's number one movie from last year is "City of God," with a nod to "Bus 174" in tandem. "City of God" was number eight for me in 2002, as it was seen in some places during that time.

Number one for me in 2003 was...

1 Lord of the Rings: Return of the King: What a triumph in filmmaking. Arguably the best of the trilogy, it is pure fantasy, with a lesson for us mortals. This is a great time at the movies. (Oscar Post Script...all eleven Academy Awards were well deserved).

2 21 Grams: The cast, the drama, and the script were all perfect. The performances by Sean Penn, Naomi Watts, Benicio Del Toro and Melissa Leo were mesmerizing. Lives collide in this film with breathtaking impact.

3 Whale Rider: Keisha Castle-Hughes gives an inspired performance as a young Maori girl with tremendous personal power, who refuses to back away from the gift of insight and leadership she has been given, despite her grandfather's attempt to deny her birthright. Youngsters everywhere should enjoy this story and the "elders" who bring them to see it are sure to love it.

4 Finding Nemo: There are lots of laughs as Nemo sets off across the vast ocean. Ellen DeGeneres is hilarious as a helpful fish with a bit of a memory problem. This is an exciting and colorful animated feature, with a beautiful message about love and loss, independence, and friendship. It belongs in every family's DVD collection.

5 Raising Victor Vargas: A gritty family drama about urban teens facing life-altering challenges told with a touch of humor and a lot of truth. An authentic and genuine appreciation for these kids' stories is apparent. A surprising film that touched me.

6 Bend It Like Beckham: More laughs, as a young British born soccer player trains for the big time, and a chance to bend that ball like David Beckham - her idol. The task is to hide her heart's desire from her Indian born parents, whose wish for her is to learn to cook a traditional Indian meal and marry well.

7 Barbarian Invasions: A sketch of what's important in one's life as you approach the end of it. The people, the memories, the mistakes, and who still loves you, Babe? Unexpected humor is laced throughout, with memorable performances.

8 Mystic River: A small enclave is the backdrop when tragic secrets from the past collide with overwhelming grief in the present day. Personal revelations about the characters here are startling.

9 Laurel Canyon: One name, Frances McDormand. She gives a no-holds-barred performance as a free-spirited record producer (complete with boy-toy) who won't back down when her son and his fiancée invade her Laurel Canyon pad.

10 Something's Gotta Give: Raucous, laugh out loud moments leave you with a big smile on your face by this movie's end. May/December flings give way to autumn romance in this full-out fun comedy.

Author

Book signing

Author Arthur J. Bilek will be signing copies of his book, "The St. Valentinefs Day Massacre," on March 27 at Honey Hill Coffee Company in Wauconda. "The St. Valentinefs Day Massacre" is the untold story of the gangland bloodbath that brought down Al Capone. Mr. Bilek is a former lieutenant on the Chicago police department, organized crime investigator for the Cook County State's Attorney, professor of criminal justice at the University of Illinois at Chicago, and Director of the Traffic Institute at Northwestern University. He lives in Wauconda, IL.

Mr. Bilek will be signing his book from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. with a reading at 11 a.m. Copies of the book are available for purchase for $24.95. Honey Hill Coffee Company is located at 107 South Main Street, Wauconda, across from OfTrainafs Restaurant. For more information call 847-487-8484.

Conference

Talk protection with ILC

The Illinois Lake Management Association invites lake enthusiasts from across the state to attend their 19th Annual Conference at the Chicago Botanic Garden on March 25-27.

This year's conference program focuses on issues and challenges facing local lake managers, lakeshore homeowners, lake associations, local units of government, and others interested in restoring and protecting Illinois lakes. Prominent lake researchers and managers will present an information-packed program.

The conference offers attendees an opportunity to meet other people who care about lakes, and who share interests in lake restoration and protection. Conference program information is available at www.ilma-lakes.org/conference

Garden

Flower & Garden Show

For those looking to find a cure for the winter blues, the 10th annual Chicago Flower & Garden Show going on now until March 21 at Navy Pier.

A prelude to spring, the Chicago Flower & Garden Show is a multi-sensory delight that blooms with color and fragrance. There is something for everyone in this 170,000 square foot spring paradise.

For additional information or to schedule an interview with any of the designers or chefs call 773-592-4598.

Misc

Museum opens for morning walkers

The McHenry County Historical Society at 6422 Main Street in Union will be available Monday-Wednesday mornings from 10 a.m. until noon for winter walkers. This service is being offered at no charge to McHenry County Historical Society members and to those who become Society members.

With large open exhibit areas, the museum provides plenty of room to accommodate an indoor walking area enhanced by loced history exhibits.

The museum walk will extend through the end of April. Preregistration is not a requirement.

For information on membership in the 40-year-old McHenry County Historical Society and the services it provides its members and the communities of McHenry County call 815-923-2267 or check the Web site www.mchsonline.org.

Screenwriting competition

The Illinois Film Office and the Chicago Film Office (IC) team up again in 2004 to ask aspiring Illinois writers to submit their screenplays for the IC Screenwriting Competition. This biennial event is designed to display local writing talent and the vast array of backdrops that the state and city offer as settings for feature-length films.

The Illinois/Chicago Screenwriting Competition is open to the residents of the State of Illinois age 18 or older. Writers are asked to submit an original, screenplay that has not been previously produced or sold, but has been copyrighted or registered. Panels of local and national film industry professionals, which have in the past included current or former Chicagoans who have written directed or produced feature films judge entries.

Winners receive a cash prize and their screenplays are submitted to a select group of studio executives and producers. A formal announcement will be made later in the year.

The 2004 Illinois/Chicago Screenwriting Competition is accepting scripts now and will continue until the deadline on April 1, 2004. For more information regarding the competition and its requirements or a copy of the entry form, contact the IC competition hotline at 312-814-8711 or log onto the Illinois Film Office web page at www.filmillinois.state.il.us

Rock-n-Roll

Round Lake area teens rock

The Round Lake Area Park District is hosting a "Battle of the Bands" on April 17 from 7-10 p.m. at Indian Hill Gym. The winner of the Battle will be the opening act for our very first summer teen concert featuring Bottle of Justus (www.bottleofjustus.com). BOJ (Bottle of Justus) will be performing June 26 at Harts Hill. To date the band has released 3 CDs and has performed at House of Blues in Chicago and many festivals including Summerfest in Milwaukee.

The Teen Center (scheduled to open in May) will be the site for our after concert party. The band will be available for autographs as well as providing an opportunity to tour the new center. The Teen Center will open its doors for a variety of program opportunities for area teens. Teen Camp will be held at the center as well as other programs including Studio Thirteen. For more information regarding any of the events or for more information about the Teen Center, call 847-546-8558. Tickets for the concert are on sale now.

Space

Explore space from the ground

Ongoing now through April 16 visitors can experience the opportunity to explore living in space on board the International Space Station and catch a glimpse of how astronauts live and work on board the space station.

The exhibit Space Station Imagination is comprised of two 48-foot trailers linked in an L-shape to form two modules of the Space Station. Visitors do not see exact replicas of what the modules look like but rather examples of the Habitation and Laboratory modules. Animatronics "astronaut" Dr. Emily greets visitors as she awakens to start her day.

The ISS Trailers will be at SciTech, 18 West Benton Street in Aurora. The exhibit is open to the public from 10 a.m.-noon Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Thursdays and noon-5 p.m. Sundays through April 16. The exhibit is accessible to people with disabilities. Tours of the exhibit are free.

New exhibition of woven silks at Lake County Discovery Museum

Experience the splendor of silk at the Lake County Discovery Museum's new exhibition, "That Silk will I go buy": Woven Silks From The John High Collection.

The exhibition will be on display at the Lake County Discovery Museum, near Wauconda from February 6 through March 31, 2004 and will showcase the Curt Teich Postcard Archive's John High Collection of postcards and other larger pictures woven in silk.

High, an actor and collector living in New York City, has donated many other rare, significant, and valuable postcards and related works of art to the Curt Teich Postcard Archives, many of which are on permanent display at the museum.

The exhibition's title, taken from Shakespeare's Merry Wives of Windsor, was chosen to suggest the enjoyment that silk collectors like High gain from building up their collections.

The exhibition will complement the display of High's silks within the Museum's permanent Treasures of a Collector exhibit, and will include dozens of silks woven by the English manufacturer Thomas Stevens, the French company Neyret Freres, and various American manufacturers.

Woven on a Jacquard loom, silks are intricately detailed and often vibrantly colored pictures that have the appearance of an engraving. They were most popular in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, and were used on postcards, bookmarks, greeting cards, or framed as works of art.

The exhibition will explore the relationship of silks to Victorian cultural, economic, and intellectual history. The subjects of silks range from Victorian celebrities such as politicians, military heroes and athletes, to sporting events, to nostalgic and charming genre scenes.

Themes discussed in the exhibition will include the economic and political factors that shaped the weaving industry and the impact of the Jacquard loom on the history of computing.

The exhibition will also show how silks, both in their manufacture and in their visual content, embody the Victorian fascination both with nostalgia and with new technology.

Visitors to Lake County Discovery Museum will also enjoy the award-winning Museum's interactive permanent exhibits including the Lake County Mall of History, the Vortex Roller Coaster Theater, and Bringing the World Home, showcasing the world's largest collection of picture postcards.

Additionally, running through March 31 in the Special Exhibitions Gallery is "It's Colorific!," a playful and informational exploration of the wonderful world of color. Gallery hours are 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1-4:30 p.m. on Sunday. The Lake County Discovery Museum is located in Lakewood Forest Preserve on Route 176, just west of Fairfield Road near Wauconda. For more information call 847-968-3400 or visit the web site at www.lakecountydiscoverymuseum.org.

Campus ON

One-day trip to see 'King John'

The College of Lake County's "Discovery" program for adults 50 and over is sponsoring a one-day excursion to attend a presentation of Shakespeare's "King John" at the Navy Pier on March 31. Bus transportation to the play will leave at 9:15 a.m. from CLC's Southlake Educational Center in Vernon Hills and return at 5:30 p.m. The cost of the excursion is $89.

The day's events will include sightseeing, shopping and lunch, followed by the play "King John" at the Shakespeare Theatre. Lesser known than many of the Bard's works, the play focuses on England's anxieties about the emerging threat of the Spanish Armada and the nation's strained relationship with France.

For information, call 847-543-6503.

CLC to offer landscape design classes

Spring is just around the corner, and CLC is offering a series of workshops to give garden enthusiasts creative landscaping ideas.

Landscape designer and builder Tibor Gomory will present Landscape Fundamentals I from 9 a.m. to noon March 27 and Landscape Fundamentals II: Hands on Design from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. on March 27 and 9 a.m. to noon and 12:30-3:30 p.m. on March 28 on the Grayslake Campus.

In the introductory class, students will learn about basic garden designs and plans and choosing proper plant materials, paving materials, wood products, soil amendments, trees, shrubs, annuals and perennials. The fee is $29.

In the advanced class, students will sketch a blueprint landscaping plan for their gardens and get feedback from the instructor. The fee is $49.

For more information, contact the continuing education office at 847-543-2022.

Poet to present reading

Dr. Rane Ramon Arroyo, a winner of the Carl Sandburg Poetry Award, will read from his poetry at 7 p.m. March 23 in Experimental Theatre on the College of Lake County's Grayslake Campus. Admission is free; however, tickets are required.

Arroyo is a professor of English and director of the creative writing program at the University of Toledo. He is the author of four books of poetry, most recently, "Home Movies of Narcissus" and "Pale Ramon."

Arroyo's poetry has appeared in numerous journals and anthologies. In addition to his poetry, Arroyo is a prize-winning playwright and essayist.

Adrian C. Louis writes of Arroyo's poetry, "The poetry of Rane Arroyo is in-your-face and visionary at the same time."

For ticket reservations, call the box office at 847-543-2300.

One-day art tour to Chicago

The College of Lake County's "Discovery" program for adults 50 and over will sponsor a one-day excursion on April 20 to see Chicago's famous portraits in stone and canvas. A charter bus will leave at 8:45 a.m. from CLC's Southlake Educational Center in Vernon Hills and return at 4 p.m. The cost of the excursion is $69. The tour will take participants to the Art Institute of Chicago, Harold Washington Library and public parks. For information, call 847-543-6503.

'The Gatlin Brothers' in concert at CLC

Country music legends Larry, Steve and Rudy Gatlin of "The Gatlin Brothers" will perform in concert at 7 p.m. March 28 in the Mainstage Theatre on the College of Lake County's Grayslake Campus. Tickets are $37 for the general public; $35 for CLC students, staff, current alumni members and seniors 65 and over; and $15 for children under 12.

The Gatlin Brothers began singing more than 40 years ago in their hometown of Abilene, Texas. Raised on gospel music, they entertained audiences in churches and appeared on local radio and TV when they were less than seven years old. Their interest in country music was inspired by the legendary Dottie West and Kris Kristofferson, who invited the brothers to Nashville in 1972 as backup singers. The recording gave them their first hit, and their country music career took off with hit records and a Grammy award in 1976.

In 1979, the brothers became an official trio and signed with Columbia Records, and for the next decade produced numerous albums and won all the awards the music industry has to offer. Taking their show on the road for four decades, The Gatlin Brothers have traveled from dusty Texas stages to White House performances, from Broadway to Grammy Awards. Although the brothers stopped touring in 1992, they do perform in a few concerts, which they call "The Gatlin Brothers Never-Ending Reunion Tour."

The concert is funded in part by a grant from the Illinois Arts Council.

For tickets, call 847-543-2300.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES – March 21/April 20
While you don't lack ambition this week, you're short on people who share your enthusiasm. Look for romance in an unexpected place.

TAURUS – April 21/May 21
Prickly colleagues complain that you're egotistical and uncompromising, but in your mind, you're simply confident and exacting. Whatever. You prefer to work alone anyway.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21
Hold on, Gemini, this week promises some surprises at home and at work. Keep your cool and others will be impressed with your management skill. A lost love finds his way back to you on Friday.

CANCER – June 22/July 22
It's about time you stepped out of your shell for a bit, Cancer. In fact, you're feeling downright adventurous this week. Great! Get out there and show 'em what you've got.

LEO – July 23/August 23
A windfall relieves some of your money woes, but that doesn't mean that you're rich. Spend this cash wisely now, and the real rewards will follow.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
This is a time to go it alone, Virgo. People are too unpredictable this week. Have faith in yourself — everyone else does.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
Nothing will work out as planned this week, Libra. It's just one of those weeks. While certainly frustrating, it will teach you to adapt. Take time for yourself on Tuesday.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
You're on fire, Scorpio — at your creative peak. Others will be looking for a chance to share in your spotlight. Friends look to you for romantic advice. Stay out of it!

SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21
People are free to do what they want, Sagittarius, a fact that you'll find most annoying this week. Instead of getting angry, use your energy to find a way to accomplish your goal. A special someone has a gift for you.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20
Aren't you tired of going to the same place all the time? Go someplace new, where you can be yourself without worrying what others will say.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
Things are shifting into a higher or a lower gear this week, Aquarius. This could be a promising change, a gateway into the next phase of your life.

PISCES – Feb 19/March 20
You'll be surprised how quickly things happen this week, Pisces. Don't fight the tide — it's taking you to better places, new experiences and acquaintances.

Irish author speaks at library

The Antioch Public Library is hosting author Bill Cullen on Sunday, March 21 at 3 p.m. Cullen will be in the Chicago area for one week promoting his book, "It's a Long Way from Penny Apple."

The book is an autobiography of a self-made man, and rags-to-riches success story. The proceeds from the sales of this book go to the Irish Youth Foundation.

Cullen was born and raised in the slums of Dublin Ireland during World War II, when the only commodity more scarce than food or work, was hope. He lived in a one-room tenement with his fourteen siblings, two of whom died before age three, casualties of harsh winters spent in public housing. Yet despite the desperate conditions, there was always infinite love and laughter in the Cullen household, thanks to his mother Mary, and his spirited old grandmother Molly Darcy, whose strength would fuel the young boy's perseverance.

Reservations are suggested for this event and can be made by calling 847-395-0874.

AARP offers free tax help

AARP Tax Aide volunteers will be available at the Antioch Public Library from 9 a.m.-noon on Thursdays through April 15 to assist with income tax preparation. The help is available to those of middle or low income with special attention paid to those over the age of 60 years old.

It is not necessary to be an AARP member to receive help.

To schedule an appointment, call the library at 847-395-0874.

Fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue, lupus support group meets monthly

Fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue, lupus support group meets on the first Saturday of each month at 884 Main St. (Route 83), from 10 a.m.-noon. It is open to all individuals who have chronic pain conditions, particularly Fibromyalgia, Chronic Fatigue and Lupus.

There is no cost to attend and family members are welcome. For more information about the group or topic for the month, please call 847-362-7807.

Garden club hosts regular meetings through June

Antioch Garden Club meets the first Monday of the month, September through June at 6:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church at 848 Main St., Antioch.

Visitors and new members are welcome. For more information call (847) 395-1202.

Knights of Columbus meet

Knights of Columbus (Father Henderson Council 3800) meet the first and third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Father Frawley Hall, located in the basement of St. Peter Church.

The Knights of Columbus is an international Catholic Family Fraternal service organization that volunteers time and money to charitable and benevolent causes. Practicing Catholic men over the age of 18 years old are eligible to join.

For more information, call St. Peter Church Rectory at 847-395-0274.

CPR classes held

The Antioch Rescue Squad and the Antioch Fire Dept. offer CPR classes to the public at the Antioch Fire Dept. located at 835 Holbek Drive.

For more information or to make reservations, call the Antioch Fire Dept. at 847-395-5511.

Take pounds off

TOPS (take pounds off sensibly) meets every Wednesday at the Antioch Senior Center. Weigh-ins begin at 6:30 p.m., and the meetings begin at 7 p.m. For more information call 847-395-6443 or 847-395-8143.

The Antioch Senior Center is located at 817 Holbek Dr., behind the fire station.

VFW offers fish fry

Antioch VFW Post 4551 has started having a fish fry on Friday nights from 4-8 p.m.

In addition to cod, perch and shrimp the menu offers burgers and chicken strips. Dinners are served with French fries or a baked potato, in a limited quantity, and coleslaw bread and butter.

Cost varies from about $3-8, depending on the fish or meat.

For more information, call 847-395-5393.

Fun 'catching' at LV library

Dr. Gesundheit (a.k.a. Craig Sjogerman) will present "The Sweet & Bitter Fool," his unique blend of comedy, juggling, storytelling, classic clowning, vaudeville and creative audience participation, at the Lake Villa District Library, Friday, April 2, at 11 a.m.

Craig Sjogerman, alter ego of Dr. Gesundheit, has been performing since 1988. Although he is from Chicago, he has toured throughout the country and appeared at such venues as The Los Angeles Children's Museum, Seattle Center, Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, Eskimo villages in Alaska, The Lyric Opera of Chicago, the MGM Grand Hotel, and thousands of schools, libraries, parks and community groups.

He also works for the Shanti Foundation of Evanston, helping teachers use the arts to foster nonviolent conflict resolution.

Most recently, Sjogerman donned his doctor whites to work with the Big Apple Circus' renowned Clown Care Unit at the University of Chicago Children's Hospital.

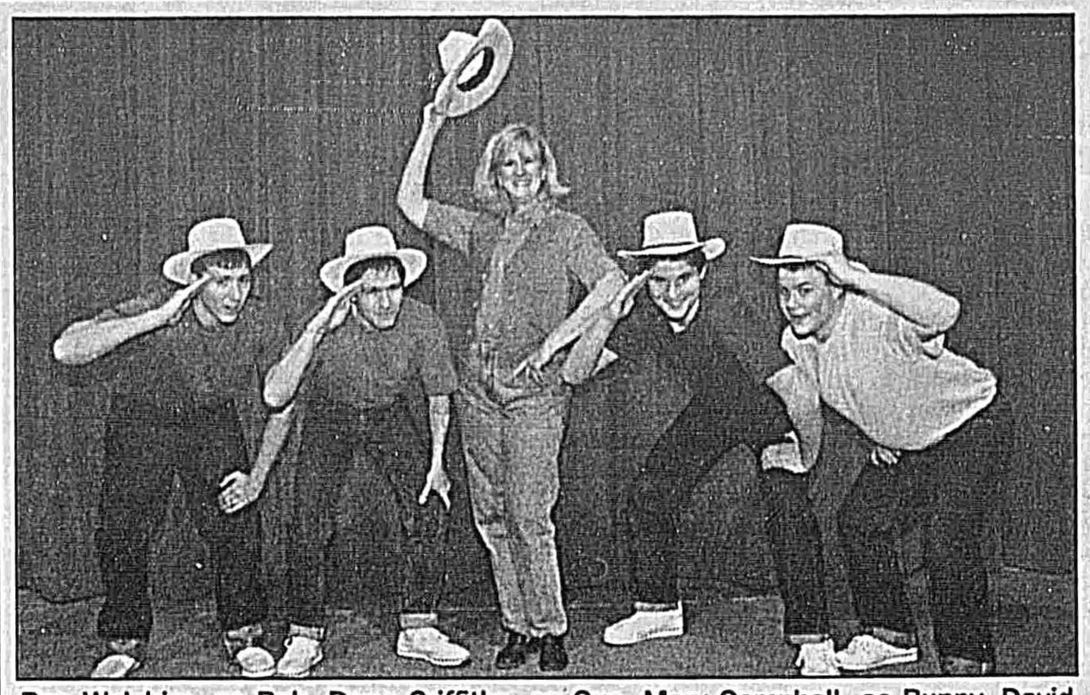

Sjogerman described the nature of the character in his performances.

"The trickster character is universal, Sjogerman said. " This trickster uses his or her wits and 'magic' to overcome odds. This is why these stories particularly appeal to young people. The trickster and the clown have a lot in common."

Audience members become the characters in the stories and become the "doctor's" clowning partners. It is a show for families to enjoy together.

"The Sweet & Bitter Fool" features stories from Africa, the Caribbean, Native American Cultures, and Eastern Europe.

The Lake Villa District Library is located at 1001 E. Grand Ave. Tickets for this free program are available at the Youth Services desk. Telephone reservations will not be accepted.

'Babes' score highlights comedy

PM&L Theatre has chosen an upbeat musical comedy, "Babes in Arms," to coincide with the lift spring gives. The show opens March 19 and runs through April 4.

Publicity director Betty Smouse said, "This quintessential 'hey kids, let's put on a show' musical boasts what is considered to be one of the greatest scores ever written for the stage. A New York critic in 1937 said that the score is 'altogether superb, fresh, youthful and utterly captivating' and this is just as true in 2004."

The musical highlights include "My Funny Valentine," "Where or When," "The Lady Is a Tramp," "I Wish I Were in Love Again" and "Johnny One Note."

Smouse said the story revolves around a theater apprentice's conviction to mount an original review despite attempts by the theater owner to squash the effort. Also adding to the mix are an overbearing stage mother and a hack of a playwright with an inflated ego, though the show does go on in a resolution of comeuppance, reconciliation and romance.

Tom Hausman, of Antioch, directs PM&L's production. Yvonne Alton, of McHenry, is both the assistant director and stage manager. Tracy Kiederlen, of Antioch, is music director, and Courtney Willding, of Ingleside, is choreographer.

The cast is led by Josh St. John, of Round Lake Beach; Liz Willding, of Ingleside; Amy DeLamoreaux, of Huntley; Dean Griffiths, of Round Lake; Mary Campbell, of Palatine; and April Milbratz, of Richmond. Supporting roles are played by Stacy Griffiths, of Round Lake; Kevin Carr and David Whitacre, both of Lindenhurst; Terry O'Brien, of Lake Villa; Coutney and Gigi Willding, of Ingleside; Paul Bleadow and Jennifer Diethart, both of Kenosha; Ramon Santana, of Fox Lake; Ben Walshire and Maria Bobrova, both of Antioch; and Jane Sackheim, of Gurnee.

Tickets are $13 for adults, and $10 for students and seniors. Box office hours are Monday through Thursday from 5:30-7:30 p.m., Saturday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., and 90 minutes prior to curtain on show dates.

LAKE VILLA/LINDENHURST PARK HAPPENINGS

Lake Villa parks committee

The new Lake Villa Parks and Recreation Committee will hold a meeting open to all residents of Lake Villa on Tuesday, March 23, at 7 p.m., at the Lake Villa District Library.

Regular meetings of the committee will be held at the Village Hall on the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m.

The committee is seeking volunteers. For more information, call Rich Coles at 847-356-0834, or 847-951-8474.

(Unless otherwise noted, all programs listed below are held at the Lindenhurst Park District Community Center, 2200 E. Grass Lake road, west of Route 45. For more information, call 847-356-6011 or visit the park district on the web at www.lindenhurstparks.org.)

Lindenhurst Park District

Youth Soccer League/Scholarship

For many years, the Lindenhurst Youth Soccer League has offered Educational Scholarships for young adults who have participated in our soccer program through the Lindenhurst Park District.

These scholarships are for students planning to continue their education in an accredited post-secondary college, university or vocational school. This scholarship must be used for the first full year of full time study.

Scholarship applications are available to seniors graduating in the 2003/2004 school year. Scholarship applications can be picked up from high school guidance offices.

For more information regarding this scholarship, call the Lindenhurst Park District at 847-356-6011.

The deadline for mailing in applications is April 1. Applications received after this date cannot be considered for the scholarship award.

Sacred Spires & Spectacular Spaces

Seniors are invited to tour Milwaukee's south side churches. Milwaukee is called "The City of Steeples." The first stop is a St. Sava's Serbian Orthodox Cathedral. The next stop is at St. Josaphat's Catholic Basilica, one of three in the U.S.

Lunch will be at a Serbian restaurant. Choices are chicken paprikash, lamb shank or pork shish kabob. Lunch includes appetizer, vegetable, rice or potato, salad, bread, dessert and coffee.

Last stop is St. Joseph's Convent Chapel.

Price includes transportation, lunch, tour guide and a donation to each church toured. Choose lunch at time of registration. The trip is Tuesday, April 13, from 7:30 a.m.-4:15 p.m. The fee is $49 for residents, $54 for non-residents.

FOR SENIORS (55+)

Spring/Easter Luncheon

Celebrate the season with a catered lunch, conversation, games and entertainment. A buffet lunch will include fried chicken, beef stroganoff, au gratin potatoes, vegetables, tossed salad, rolls and cheesecake. The luncheon is on Thursday, April 8, starting at noon. The cost is $7 per person. Register at the front desk in the community center.

Christian Life celebrates 20 years

It's the 20th anniversary of the Christian Life Fellowship Church, and it has chosen Palm Sunday to celebrate. It's taken on the theme of "Be Four, Four Now, Four-ward" as a play on the date April 4 (04-04-04).

Reverend Larry Griswold, superintendent of the Illinois district of the Assemblies of God, will be guest speaker at the special 10 a.m. service. A reception will follow this service.

The public is welcome to attend the celebration service.

Reverend Jeff Brussaly and his wife Gwen started Christian Life Fellowship in April 1984 on Lake Street, Antioch. It moved to its current location on Deep Lake Road in 1987.

The church is located at 41625 N. Deep Lake Road, north of Route 173 and across the street from the location of the new Wal-Mart.

Nursery and childcare will be provided.

Regular services are held at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday and at 7 p.m. on Wednesday. Youth night is 7 p.m. on Friday.

For more information, call 847-395-8572.

Lakeland Media's 2003-2004 All-Area Team

First Runner-Up

Caitlin Krombach, G
Carmel, 5-feet, 6-inches, Sr.

Carmel senior Caitlin Krombach did much more than lead Lake County in 3-point shooting, scoring more than 14 points per game in the process. She also helped lead the program to another level.

"Caitlin has meant a whole lot to the program," Carmel coach John Ryan said. "She's a great role model because of the commitment she showed to the team. She provides scoring, but she also makes everyone on the team better."

Thanks in large part to Krombach, Carmel enjoyed a 27-4 season—a school record for wins by a hoops team, boys or girls. She finished her four-year varsity career with over 1,300 career points and 84 wins.

Player of the Year

Kayla Ming, F
Grayslake, 5-feet, 8-inches, Sr.

After Kayla Ming scored a career-high 36 points against Glenbrook South in the Loyola Super-Sectional Final, teammate Bethany Russ summed up the performance with one simple word: "Wow."

"Wow" could be used to describe Ming's entire season as the senior closed out her stellar four-year career by averaging over 20 points, 4.5 rebounds and 3 assists per game in leading the Rams to a 30-4 season and the team's first ever sectional title and trip downstate.

"Kayla meant everything to our team," Grayslake coach Mike Hirsch said. "She can beat you so many ways. She'll score a basket on one end and take a charge on the other. She'll do whatever it takes to win."

Ming closes out her high school career as the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,016 points, and the title of Lakeland Media's 2003-04 Player of the Year.

Second Runner-Up

Jennie Dewar, F
Antioch, 5-feet, 10-inches, Sr.

No matter what was going on with the rest of the team, Antioch coach Don Zeman knew what he would get from senior Jennie Dewar—leadership and a solid post presence.

"She had a way to making the players around her play at a higher level," Zeman said. "Her will to win was contagious."

Dewar led the Sequoits with 15 points, 9 rebounds and 3 blocks per game as the team reached the Grayslake regional final before falling to the host Rams.

Defensive player of the year

Bethany Russ, G
Grayslake, 5-feet, 6-inches, Sr.

Although Kayla Ming garnered the lion's share of headlines during Grayslake's historic season, another player was just as integral to the team's success.

Despite scoring 5 points per game, Grayslake senior Bethany Russ managed five boards, five assists, and most importantly, four steals as the team's best defender.

"She's a great on-the-ball defender and her defense leads to everything we do on offense," Grayslake coach Mike Hirsch said. "If we had to make one defensive stop, she'd be the player we would count on."

Coach of the year

-Mike Hirsch, Grayslake

Grayslake broke a lot of school records this year. Thirty wins. A sectional title. The school's first-ever trip to the state tournament. And to ask Grayslake coach Mike Hirsch, he deserves none of the credit.

"I just drove the bus," Hirsch said.

Hirsch took a team with just one regular over 5-8, and helped teach them a high-octane motion offense and a stifling full-court pressure defense that allowed them to compete against teams with several 6-foot-plus post players. In two seasons, Hirsch has amassed a 56-10 record.

Newcomer of the year

T.K. LaFleur, G
Warren, 5-feet, 8-inches, Jr.

After transferring to Warren from Langham Creek High in Houston, it took a while for T.K. LaFleur to adapt to her teammates. But after she did, LaFleur proved why she was ranked among the top juniors in the country.

Her energetic play, described by some as a ping pong ball in a bathtub, helped lead Warren to a 19-10 record and the school's first NSC Lake division title. For the season, LaFleur averaged almost 16 points, 6 boards, 4 assists and 3 blocks per game.

"She's a tremendous athlete who can do so many things on the floor," Warren coach John Stanczykiewicz said. "No other athletes in Lake County can match up with her."

Sadly, LaFleur's season ended when she suffered a torn meniscus just as the post-season rolled around.

Let's Go Racing show approaching fast

The green flag is ready to fall on the 27th Annual Let's Go Racing Motorsports Show presented by Babicz Auto Racing Services of Gurnee.

The show that traditionally signals the beginning of the area motorsports season is scheduled Friday through Sunday, March 19-21, at The Original Outlet Mall, I-94 and Hwy. 50, in Kenosha, Wis.

Move in for entries will be on Thursday, March 18, with a 7 p.m. meeting followed by entries coming in starting at 8 p.m. after the mall closes.

Show displays are open free to the public during regular mall hours. Friday 10 a.m.-9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m.-8 p.m. and Sunday 11 a.m.-6 p.m.

Lots of information on all types of motorsports and racing including free schedules, brochures and some videotape showings are included in displays. Many of the competitors are on hand to answer questions and offer insight into their sport. Some show participants allow children to have pictures taken inside their vehicles.

Cameras and film are available for purchase at the fully enclosed and climate-controlled mall with all kinds of stores for shopping along with an assortment of eating establishments.

The show is known as the largest and longest running of its kind in the country.

Discount rooms are available at Best Western Executive Inn, Kenosha, Wis.

A show awards party/roast is planned for Saturday, March 20, beginning at 8 p.m. at The Bristol Room in the Best Western Executive Inn. Cost is $10 per person including limited food and soda and cash bar is available for alcoholic drinks.

The roast is of Mike Babicz, the show promoter, with proceeds benefiting Wisconsin Fans For Auto Racing. Tickets will be available at door, but persons planning to attend are encouraged to contact Babicz to that enough food can be ordered. Jeff Wesell is coordinating the roast.

On Saturday, March 20, from 8:30-10 a.m., a first ever Motorsports Safety Seminar is planned free to show participants and the general public. The seminar will be held at one of the rooms within the mall.

The seminar is being coordinated by Carson Wilkinson, Road America safety director. Topics will include belts, driver suits, seats, helmets, fire protection, safety requirements for competitors and motorsports facilities.

Panel discussion plans include safety equipment manufacturers, safety personnel and motorsports facility managers along with some competitors. There will be a question/answer session along with some possible demonstrations.

A live radio broadcast by Racing Roundup is planned for Saturday morning. A open forum to discuss motorsports is being scheduled.

Space is limited. Last year's show drew over 80 entries from three different states covering 26 different types of motorsports.

AT A GLANCE

July 4 celebration still possible

Gurnee—Great Lakes Credit Union has come forward, saying it will donate $2,000 toward fireworks for Gurnee's annual July 4 celebration, as well as start a campaign to encourage others to donate. The village board voted at its March 1 meeting against funding the July 4 celebration amid budget concerns.

Wells contain carcinogens

Wauconda—Results of well testing ordered by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency in January have found that low levels of vinyl chloride, a potential carcinogen, is present in 81 wells in the Hillcrest and North Shore subdivisions in Wauconda. Tests were ordered by the EPA after routine testing by the Lake County Health Department discovered the presence of the substance in private wells.

Village refunds TIF money

Round Lake Beach—The second TIF (tax increment financing) district in Round Lake Beach has generated additional property taxes from an increase in assessed evaluation. Village officials have agreed to refund the surplus of $925,274 to the taxing bodies within the district. The taxing bodies to benefit are the Round Lake Area Library, Fire, Park and school districts, the village of Round Lake Beach, Grayslake elementary and high school districts and CLC.

Local boy tabbed as next 'Mikey'

Vernon Hills—Vernon Hills resident Michael Mariella, 8, has been named as the new "Mikey", the cover boy for boxes of Life cereal. Michael, a second-grader at Hawthorn school, won a national search for the face to adorn the cereal box.

'No Childhood' puts face on horrific history of Holocaust

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Childhood as defined, idealized and remembered by most has nothing to do with the life of Edith Rogers, a Holocaust survivor who has written a book she hopes will help end prejudice.

Now living in Antioch, Rogers was born in Saarbruecken, Germany in the early 1930s and was sent to "visit" a great aunt in Stuttgart when she was 2 - years-old. No one ever came to pick her up from that visit, and she grew up in Stuttgart with the people she came to know, love and refer to as "Mom," "Dad" and "the girls" (two adult daughters).

Her birthfather, the only off-limits topic of conversation with this candid author, divorced her mother and abandoned her when the first laws against interracial marriage with Jews were passed.

"I had no childhood; it was stolen from me," Rogers said. "That is why I called my book 'No Childhood.' Like most survivors and combat soldiers, it took me a long time to be able to talk about this. Now it seems like a lifetime ago, and I want to make sure that people don't

Waukegan rolls snake-eyes in bid for state's 10th casino license

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
carels@lakelandmedia.com

Waukegan officials were stunned Monday when the Illinois Gaming Board voted 4-1 for Rosemont as the winner of the coveted 10th and last Illinois casino license Monday.

Rosemont's Isle of Capri Casinos, Inc. bid of $518 million was accepted over Waukegan's Harrah's Entertainment offer of $520 million and Des Plaines' $476 million bid through Midwest Gaming & Entertainment.

The vote followed a recommendation by the New York investment banking firm, Rothshild, Inc., which conducted the auction for the license. Staff recommendations supported the Midwest Gaming for the Des Plaines facility.

"Right from the very beginning, I said the only two things that could beat Waukegan was money and politics," said Waukegan Mayor, Richard Hyde. "And it was both."

The gaming board was three hours late announcing its decision, adding to the three remaining bidders frustration.

Reports from gaming board officials that Waukegan was the top bidder buoyed officials confidence. The news was an unexpected blow.

"We were the high bidder," Hyde said. "It would have been new money for the state. You're not going to get any new money from Rosemont."

Waukegan planned to build the gambling boat facility on the demolished Lakehurst Shopping Mall site.

The city's campaign for the license was based on its unique location to attract patrons from Wisconsin and northeastern Illinois, as there

It will be a repeat of the 2002 general election in the U.S. Congress' Eighth District in November when Republican Phil Crane (R-Wauconda) will face off against Democrat Melissa Bean.

Bean crushed her Democratic opponent with 78 percent of the vote to William Schuerer's 22 percent.

Keller gets Dems call in lively race for coroner

Dr. Richard Keller of Waukegan will challenge Jim Wipper in November's race to be the next Lake County Coroner.

Keller defeated Dr. Sophia Schild of Mundelein by an unofficial count of 20,522 to 15,525 votes to win the Democrats' nomination. Wipper was unchallenged on the Republican side. Wipper was appointed coroner after Barbara Richardson retired.

"I'm happy and looking forward to November. We have known each other for a while and I'm sure that it won't be nasty. The race for coroner is not a sexy race, but it is an important office," Keller said. Keller runs a health clinic in Waukegan.

He credited a grassroots effort for his victory Tuesday. He earned a degree from Omaha College Medical School in emergency medicine and formerly worked at the St. Therese Hospital emergency room. Keller is a former candidate for Mayor of Waukegan.

Schild wishes Keller well in November and said she will work for his election.

"It was a wonderful process. I met a lot of fantastic people in the county I enjoyed it," Schild said.

Schild said she plans on being more active in the community.

Man of the Consumers

Credit union's Reidel retires after 40 years at CCCU

By CORINNE REYNOLDS
creynolds@lakelandmedia.com

Bill Reidel did not expect the recognition he has received upon his retirement as president of Consumers Cooperative Credit Union. But when you are dedicated to an organization and the community it serves for 40 consecutive years, people tend to notice.

Reidel will retire from his 25 years as president of CCCU at the end of this month. The City of Waukegan, Illinois House of Representatives and the Illinois Senate have each issued proclamations and/or certificates of recognition in Reidel's honor.

Those who have worked with him say Reidel has made CCCU what it is today. He joined the bank in 1964 as a loan collector. When he was promoted to president in 1979, the company was a single location with $14 million in assets and about 16,000 members. It has now grown to five branches throughout the county, and has $365 in assets and over 47,000 members.

Dave Sherman, board chairman of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce, said of the bank's growth, "It's largely due to Bill and the Consumer's staff following his leadership.

"He is the epitome of just a good business man and a good family many man who really cares about his community," he added.

Ted Stanulis, president of Waukegan Savings and Loan has known Reidel since 1968, when he and his wife applied for their first car loan at CCCU.

"I really respect him as someone who's really been a very honest, straight forward person, someone who's word you can count on, and someone who cares about the community he's serving. I can't say enough about him," Stanulis said.

Reidel has served three terms on the Lake County Chamber of Commerce board of directors, including one as chairman.

Hal Coxon, a chamber member who has worked with Reidel for 22 years, commended him for always being a teacher.

"He's spent countless hours teaching minorities how to establish and improve their credit and how to adjust to differences in culture," he read from a statement at the chamber's annual installation dinner.

"He's always teaching, always leading and those qualities, more than any other, define his character," he said.

Reidel said he has mixed emotions about retiring.

"It's good to leave on the note I'm leaving on," he said. "But it's hard to say goodbye to long-time friendships I've made with the staff over several years."

Of the recent recognition, he said, "It's really been an honor for me and my family and the credit union for me to receive all of the accolades. It's wonderful, but I never meant to be singled out. I hope I've lived up to the expectations."

Reidel will continue in his position on the chamber board until his term is up next March.

"I like to be involved in the community and I can still represent the credit union in that capacity (on the chamber board)," he said.

Reidel also commented on Sean Rathjen, who has been hired as CCCU's new president.

"I think they made a wonderful choice," Reidel said. "He's very knowledgeable...so I expect the transition time will be very rapid."

CCCU Marketing Manager Martha Castillo said Reidel will be greatly missed.

"We're going to miss him tremendously," Castillo said. "He's been with the bank since 1964, and it's going to be a tremendous adjustment."

Transportation tax totaled

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
carels@lakelandmedia.com

Taxpayers frustrated with Lake County traffic congestion said Tuesday that funding shouldn't come from increased taxes but from monies the Lake County Board already has.

Residents at Tuesday's primary election did not approve a referendum asking voters to support a 1/4-percent sales tax to ease traffic congestion.

The tax would have added an additional 25 cents in sales tax for every $100 spent in the county with the exception of food, medicine and big-ticket items such as cars and boats.

Residents already spend 25 cents in sales tax for every $100 spent on local goods.

Lake County Board President, Suzi Schmidt (R-Lake Villa), was philosophical about the defeat.

"It's a tax, it's a tough time," Schmidt said. "People are taxed to death."

She said with safety referenda such as police and fire, that people have to make choices on where their tax dollars go.

Schmidt felt the wording on the ballot was confusing to voters who hadn't heard about the tax through one of the many community meetings, the county Web site, or media outlets would have been confusing.

As for criticisms that the county board should use existing funding rather than impose a tax, Schmidt said that the county's general fund supports all the extra needs of existing concerns.

"We're very over extended in courts and safety," she said. "And you can only levy so much. You need police officers and we go to the general fund."

Schmidt added that the county is frugal with its funds. Money isn't borrowed to pay bills, which has increased its bond rating.

"This doesn't mean we're going to stop. We're going to keep going after the federal money," she said.

County officials expected to raise an additional $15 million annually, which would more than double the existing transportation budget.

Area senate candidate's spirits high, vote total low in primary

By JEFF ZACHARY
jzachary@lakelandmedia.com

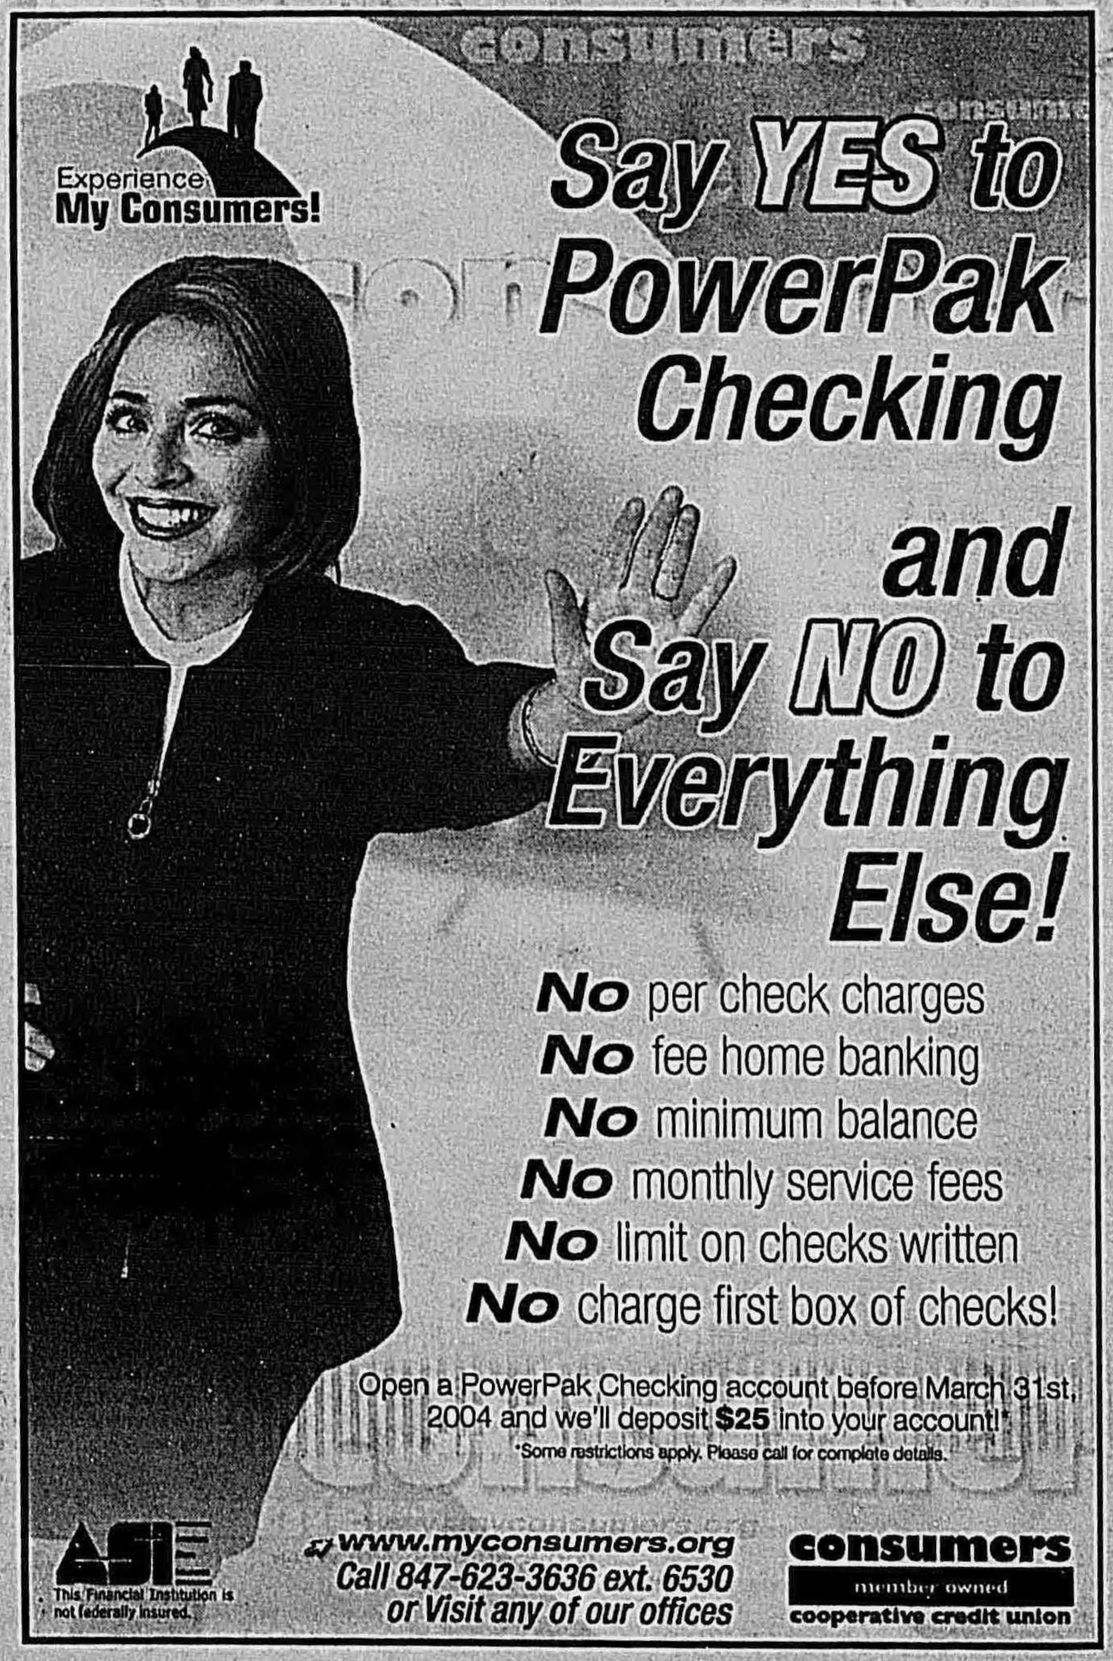

Although he failed in his attempt to win the Republican Nomination for the U.S. Senate to Jack Ryan—and every other candidate in the field, save one—Grayslake resident Norm Hill was treated to a warm reception at the Renwood Country Club on election night.

State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Hainesville) introduced Hill to the audience. "With no money and no big campaign organization behind him, Norm got a lot of votes including mine," Churchill said.

He added that he admired Hill for taking a stand on the issues and for running an honest campaign. After reading a piece by Teddy Roosevelt, Churchill said, "My heart goes out to you (both) but I also want to congratulate you for going out into the field to battle."

Hill replied, 'I want to thank Bob for being such a good friend. When I got into this race I went to a forum to be able to support one of my opponents. But I found I couldn't do it. It's been a good challenge and quite an experience. I didn't even have a chance to ask for a fundraiser because I didn't know from one day to the next if I was going to be on the ballot."

Hill was referring to a challenge by a Democrat to get him taken offf the ballot for petition irregularities which caused Hill to spend time convincing the election board that he had done nothing wrong. Hill has said he believes that Republican John Borling was the one who was really behind the challenge.

Mystery surrounds found explosives

By JEFF ZACHARY
jzachary@lakelandmedia.com

In an era of unprecedented terrorism around the world, the confiscation of military-class explosives by the Cook County Sheriff's Bomb Squad, that were discovered in a field in the northeastern part of Lake County, prompted Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re to hold a press conference at his headquarters in Waukegan on March 12.

However, due to an ongoing investigation, the sheriff refused to divulge the exact location of the find.

The sheriff said, "Yesterday, (March 11) the Lake County Sheriff's office received information that a substantial amount of military explosives and explosive paraphernalia were discovered in a field in a northeastern area of unincorporated Lake County. Two local men were in the field searching for deer antler (and) made the discovery."

The sheriff said the men found the material under a green colored canvass.

The sheriff then pointed at the items on a table which included four pounds of C-4 plastic explosive; one military M-18 Smoke Grenade; three green metal military ammunition containers; eight illumination ground white star cluster flares; six non-electric blasting caps; two M-117 simulator booby trap flashes; two M-118 simulator booby trap illuminating flares; one green lithium battery; and one military gun cleaning kit.

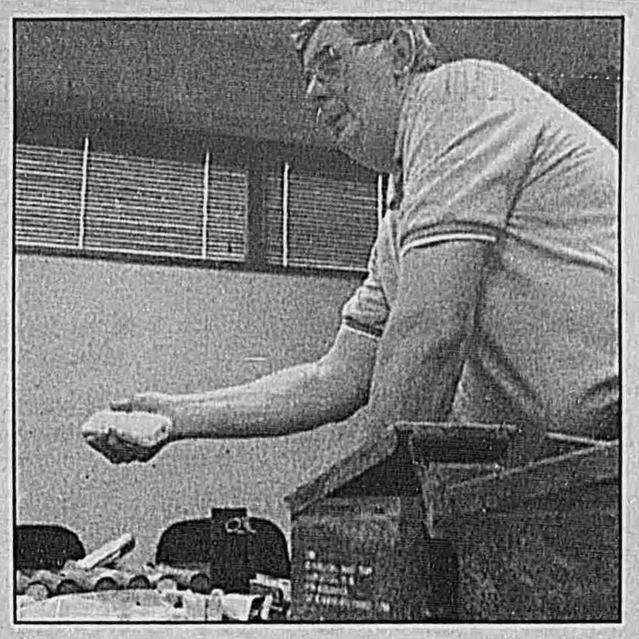

Although Lake County has its own bomb squad, for some reason that the Sheriff did not explain, the items were taken into custody by members of the Cook County Bomb Squad from the field and transported to the Cook County Sheriff's Bomb Squad bunker for storage. They were then transported to Waukegan for the press conference.

"At this point no further items have been located. Investigators from our office, the Cook County Sheriff's Bomb Squad, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the FBI are currently working together in a joint effort to determine, number one, the origin of these items and the person or persons responsible for placing them in the field," Del Re said.

Sheriff Del Re then introduced Commander Kenneth Rewers of the Cook County Sheriff's Bomb Squad, but again, failed to mention why Cook County was even involved in a Lake County matter.

In response to a question of how powerful C-4 explosives are, Rewers said, "One pound would very well take a car almost down to its frame."

Sheriff Del Re was asked if the people who found the explosives called his office, to which he replied, "In a round about way, yeah," causing speculation that it was the Cook County Sheriff's Department who took the explosives into custody before the Lake County Sheriff was even notified.

Act to protect groundwater

Lake County officials are taking a leadership role in Illinois to conserve and protect groundwater supplies. Growing out of findings for the county's Regional Framework Plan, State Sen. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) has introduced a bill that would require the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources to develop a program to issue permits for new high-capacity ground water wells.

The legislation is intended to require that all future high-volume groundwater users apply to the state bureau to show that a new well will not be detrimental to the aquifer and neighboring water users. Residents of unincorporated areas drawing water from private wells are particularly vulnerable to high volume wells. The threat to groundwater sources was one of the principal faults found with proposals in recent years to establish peaker electrical generating plants in this locality.

The bill defines high capacity wells as those that withdraw 70 gallons per minute, 100,000 gallons per day or 3,000,000 per month. At first glance, the requirement might seem rather stringent, but taking care of groundwater makes sense. Because of possible opposition from municipal leaders, business interests and developers, Planning, Building and Development Director Philip Rovang sounded a cautionary but practical note, that additional advocacy will be needed to see the bill signed into law.

Prediction: There will be outcries from special interest groups that the groundwater protection initiative is just another example of county government sticking its nose into private business at the cost of commercial growth and economic development. Could be, but what happens when the well runs dry or the aquifer peters out? The complainers will be the first to cry, why didn't the county plan in advance.

Bewitching hour plagues community

Four o'clock is the bewitching hour when it comes to kids getting into trouble after school. Educators, law enforcement officers, civic and business leaders attending and After School Summit were told that three to six p.m. is prime-time for juvenile crime.

After school problems aren't going away. They're getting worse. Because of budgetary pressures, public funding for after-school activities has been cut and is back to where it was seven years ago, according to Mundelein Police Chief Ray Rose, one of the sponsors of a gathering of leaders and decision makers.

State Rep. Kathy Ryg (D-Vernon Hills), a co-sponsor of the summit meeting and an advocate for new after-school youth initiatives, said the downward slide of youth problems can be reversed if access to quality activities is provided. After-school problems are scary. Two-thirds of twelfth-graders have had sex, 74 percent have tried alcohol more than two or three times, and 74 percent have used illegal drugs.

In a nutshell, school buildings empty out in the afternoon with 80,000 children out of the 132,000 in public schools and another 15,000 in private schools facing several hours of unsupervised time on their hands. The bewitching hour. Mom and dad won't be home from their jobs for several hours. Kids are on their own and they're getting into trouble—serious trouble in increasing numbers.

Chief Rose and Ryg hope to reconvene the summit in April to begin charting a program to counteract the serious deficiency in bringing up children properly. We commend their leadership and wish them well.

Could extending the school day be an answer? It is necessary to keep the kids occupied until their parents take over. State's Atty. Mike Waller points out that benefits to society are obvious by heading at-risk kids in the right direction. From our observation, parental involvement will be key. Parents will have to do more than just drop their kids off and pick them up later.

Computer scouts need helping hand

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Despite pummeling from left-wing politicians and liberal media, and endless agitation from atheists and gay activists, the Boy Scouts are alive and well and moving forward with the long-standing goal of instilling basic American values in youth and helping them become good citizens.

They can use a kind word, though and some support. That's where you or someone you know can lend a hand.

One scouting group in need of backing is a two-unit organization, a troop of six young boys and a Venture group of 10 young adults that is co-educational. What is needed is charter backing from an organization or private concern that is willing to commit to a $20 annual fee, help select leaders and provide a safe meeting place.

The tie that binds them together is their love and interest in computer science. Modern scouting is more than camping and learning to tie knots. Their leader is Joe Serocki who can be contacted during working hours at 630-368-8065.

Brad W. Bodoh, regional scouting executive, explained that charter support can come from civic groups, churches or private companies. "It boils down to wanting to help young people help themselves. They need guidance and support."

Bodoh can be reached at 847-438-1813, ext. 623.

Mallet master

The next Red Norvo or Lionel Hampton, who turned vibes into jazz instruments, could be a senior at Mundelein High. Eric Neissner dazzled an audience at College of Lake County for a salute to Woody Herman and Buddy Rich with his lightening mallet work. Eric, who will graduate in June, is a regular with the CLC Tuesday Night Jazz Ensemble. Bandleader Dave Kublank referred to him as a "triple threat" musician because he equally is at home at drums and the piano. Eric plans on enrolling at the University of California/Berkeley School of Music this fall.

Waste disposal

Special handling of latex paint for disposal is being requested by the Solid Waste Agency (SWALCO) which will kick off Saturday household chemical waste collections Saturday, March 27. SWALCO can provide bags of crushed corn cobs to mixing with left over latex. The mixture dries in about 30 minutes and then is ready for disposal with regular trash. Tires and lead acid batteries also are on the no no list and should be taken to any retail outlet selling the products.

Saturday disposal sites are one of the most popular projects conducted by SWALCO. Collection points will be established this year at Waukegan, Antioch, Vernon Hills, Lake Zurich, Libertyville and Deerfield. Watch the news columns of this newspaper for specific details.

One man's family

A spring break reunion for four little cousins turned out to be wall-to-wall fun. Erika and Ali, the Texas group, introduced John and Nikki to wall climbing, a popular indoor sport in the Lone Star State. The foursome scrambled up the 30 foot or so walls like pros. Grampa wondered where they learned this valuable skill. "Nobody told use what to do, offered Ali. "We just did it."

No. 1 issue...the war and how we got there

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

Even as the primary elections become part of history, it appears that there is an unsettled electorate. In caucus and direct primaries, Democrats have been participating in record numbers. Exit polls show that Democrats and independents have expressed outright anger over the direction that the county is moving.

The county is as divided as it has ever been.

Elections are won or lost by who turns out in the election. Some Democrats still are reacting that the 2000 election was stolen from them after the Florida fiasco. Others expressed outwardly that President Bush has favored the interests of large corporations and the special interests rather than middle America and ordinary citizens. Conservatives have been outraged that the President has created the largest deficit in history. His spending policies augur future deficit disaster health care and protect policies toward the large drugs companies is a persistent problem.

Although President Bush keeps telling citizens that the economy is moving along, the average American doesn't see it. Large companies are moving their plants out of country so that they can hire cheap labor. What so many of us feared would happen when we signed on to the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) is happening before our very eyes. We knew that it wouldn't be level playing field, and we are suffering for it as jobs are disappearing in quick order. There is only a trickle of new jobs and most of those are at the lower wage scales.

The state of the economy has always been the "do or die" issue in national elections and it is heating up as we head toward November. When "two wage-earner families" are finding it more difficult to keep their fiscal hours in order, you can imagine that it is almost impossible for single wage-earner families to make ends meet.

All of the above domestic issues are important when we choose our politcal leaders. But I believe that the most important issue that should be fully discussed is WAR and HOW WE GOT THERE.

After the 9-11 tragedy, we had every right to go after Osama Bin Laden and his terrorist network. We had the support of the international community.

When President Bush sought Congressional approval to engage a preemptive strike against Iraq, no matter how he spins it after the fact, the country was led to believe from reading his lips that our nation's security was a risk by the weapons of mass destruction that Saddam Hussein had and intend to use against us. With all that we are learning now, we can suspect that the intelligence that the President claimed that he had based on sending our military in harm's way was flawed intelligence. Are we now to believe that someone in the upper levels of the administration had as a top priority, even before 9-11, an obsession toward "regime" change in Iraq.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Salvi enjoys role as talk show host

The Al Salvi Show of political commentary and call-ins on WKRS is gaining in popularity.

Salvi, twice elected state representative and a two-time loser for state office as a Republican nominee, goes on the air daily Monday through Friday at 1:45 p.m. to talk about politics and public issues until 3 p.m.

"I'm having a ball. I love the show," commented Salvi, an avowed pro-life conservative who spends mornings in his Waukegan law office where he specializes in personal injury cases.

Salvi represented a mid-Lake County Legislative district before making unsuccessful runs for the U.S. Senate and Illinois Sec. of State. A resident of rural Wauconda, Salvi has indicated that for the immediate future his taste for politics will be confined to radio conversation.

One of his recent callers was former Vice President Dan Quayle.

Before primary election day, Salvi predicted U.S. Senate winners would be Democrat Barak Obama and Republican Jack Ryan. Right on target.

Salvi: Former candidate enjoys commentary on public issues.

Marks: Wants voters to focus on conservation.

Happy loser

Norm Hill, the Grayslake resident who came out of nowhere to run for the U.S. Senate nomination, lost more than the election Tuesday, March 16. "I lost 10 pounds along the way," beamed Hill, a decorated veteran who enjoyed his first experience in big time politics. His proudest achievement was winning the endorsement of the United Hellenic Voters of America, a strong voice in the Greek-American community. "Their endorsement overwhelmed me," the lifelong Republican exclaimed.

Word from Marks

Former Lake County Board member Martha Marks views politics these days from a conservation perspective. The conservative Republican from Riverwoods backed David Phelps for the 8th District Congressional nomination because of his views for protecting natural resources. Marks opined that incumbent Congressman Phil Crane once represented his district well, but "that time sees to have passed long ago." Marks remains in politics with involvement in a Republican organization advancing protection of the environment.

National keynoter

Officers of the Lake County Republican Federation feel in J.C. Watts Jr. that they have one of the most charismatic speakers on the national scene for their keynoter Friday, April 16, at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort. Watts became a Congressman from Oklahoma in 1994 and has been a GOP leader ever since. In its 42nd year, the Federation has raised more than $5 million for Lake County Republican efforts. Stephen Simonian, Waukegan attorney, is the current president. Tickets can be reserved by calling 847-680-6680.

Wedding bells

Gregory David Hoogasian, son of Claudia Aho Hoogasian and the late Circuit Judge Jack Hoogasian of Lake Forest, will be wed May 15 to Jennifer Marie Maslowski, daughter of Carla Pellin of Cudahy , Wis., and Richard Maslowski of Glendale, Wis. The ceremony will take place at the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest. The future bride is a graduate of Lake Forest College with a degree in English and communications. The future groom is an assistant attorney general in the Chicago Criminal Division. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, and John Marshall Law School. They will reside in Chicago.

Seeks integrity

Even before the votes were counted in Tuesday's primary, Republican activist Jack Roeser was lining up support for a new political organization, Renew Illinois, that will screen out and back candidates who believe in the American free enterprise principals of lower taxes and fees, less regulation and honest government. The Aurora businessman who has run for state office as a Republican, wants to prove there are candidates in both parties that perform their duties ethically and with integrity. Roeser has details at www.renewillinois.com

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Honesty best policy

During my 60 years I have heard countless promises made by politicians during each year of election. Among those are promises for a better life, health care, improved taxation, etc. It seems as if any particular individual can change laws, taxes, benefits, and many other things if you just vote for him/her. As I recall, the founding fathers wrote a document called the Constitution to prevent any one individual from controlling or changing this country without express consent of the people and/or Congress.

We all have a desire to improve our own lives, as well as the conditions brought about through political promises that never materialized. Unusual as it may seem, the majority of voters will place their faith and belief in a candidate that they have never met, and allow him/her to seek control of their income and taxes for two to four years at a time. Yet, they can't get along with the guy next door for 20 years.

You may not believe that your vote will matter. If that is true, why are candidates spending millions to get that vote?

Each of you has ideas, as well as ideals that represent your life as a citizen of this country. Honesty may very well be one of those ideals. Please seek that honesty with every card you punch, every box you check, and above all, vote with your head, not your heart.

Use it or lose it

The editorial page commentary by former state legislator John Matijevich was half-right. There is a political power play going on in Fox Lake. While John's observations are usually on the money and always interesting, his insight on the local scene in our town is limited.

Although the benefits and excesses of Tax Increment Financing are well known, the fact remains that it is a tool created by the legislation to facilitate local development and many municipalities utilize it. As long as it is available, towns that use it will attract development more readily than towns that don't. It is part of the playing field and if you don't like it, lobby Springfield to eliminate it. One village's refusal to employ it won't make it more fair, it will simply put that village at a disadvantage.

Cindy Irwin is indeed "good hearted." No one would argue that. But it takes more than a good heart to provide good leadership. It takes an understanding of the tools available and the long-term impact of your actions. It takes the vision to see that 10 or 20 neighbors at a hearing speaking against a development in their back yards do not represent the 9,000 residents and their voices must be weighed against the good of the entire town.

Cindy wants what's best for Fox Lake but she hasn't demonstrated that she knows how to go about getting it. She voted against passage of the village budget a few years ago in a fit of anger that her friend's fireworks display wasn't funded. She voted against providing $30,000 worth of village services to the decaying Lakeland Plaza as a token contribution to a larger plan to revamp the Plaza, a key to revitalizing the downtown. It wasn't that she opposes handouts because she backed the previous administration when they gave millions to Dominick's Food Store. Most residents are glad that the long overdue cleanup of the plaza proceeded in spite of her objections.

Irwin is simply against anything the current administration is for. She has made no secret that she will be running for mayor and every vote she casts is guided by that ambition.

Stormy waters

Late last year the Stormwater Management Commission held public meetings concerning the Sequoit Creek Watershed Plan and new floodplain maps. The floodplain data was later determined to be faulty but the Sierra Club Woods and Wetlands Group here in Lake County is concerned with much more than flooding. Manmade drainage affects the health of the watershed and the impacts of pollution on aquatic habitats are even more important. Sequoit Creek is special, with 5 of the state's endangered fish species. The Woods and Wetlands Group has submitted comments on SMCs Sequoit Creek Draft Watershed Plan. Our goal is for the Watershed Plan to make the information, and the tools to understand it, available to the public so that SMCs interpretations can be verified. If SMC says the water quality is improving, we1d like to see proof. The draft plan lacks information crucial to protecting the watershed's outstanding aquatic life.

With the recent onslaught of sprawl development in and around the watershed the threats are great. Stream quality has been shown to decline when roofs and blacktop cover as little as 10% of the land. At Hwy 173 and Deep Lake in Antioch, Phase I is in full swing. Are safeguards in place and is anyone monitoring site runoff? Even if the water quality is good now as SMC asserts, how long will it remain a high quality watershed if no one1s watching? We need SMC to tell the whole story, and protect our waters.

Homes too big

In the discussion of "affordable housing," in Lake County, what is frequently NOT accounted for is that less-and-less of the housing being built is "entry-level sized". This makes less of it available over time.

In 1960, a typical American home averaged 1,100 square feet in size, and was affordable by single-income households.

In 2000, a typical newly-built home averaged 2,300 sq. ft. in size, usually requiring a dual-income.

Take a look at any of the subdivisions being built in Lake County today. You'll find few single-family homes smaller than 1,800 sq. ft. available, most are larger than 2,500 sq ft. (Even most new townhomes come with the "Luxury" moniker, and run large and pricey.) Where are the "modest" homes for newly-married couples or single parents?

Even though they see the need, developers and builders are not responding in offering smaller homes, in large part because of the innumerable compromises and legal obstacles imposed by local governments. Currently paying only lip-service to the "lack of affordable housing" issue, our elected representatives could instead be taking active, attainable steps benefiting ALL citizenry.

Even before the next subdivision is proposed in your village or town, publicize the fact that you will FAVORABLY work with developers who integrate smaller (and more affordable) homes into the next round of building. We have to ability to "tip the scales" back to the local market having homes for everyone and not waste time and energy chasing tax-payer-funded subsidies and grants (for housing which isn't available anyway).

Staff calls shots

Who is in charge at the Lake County Preserve—the taxpayers or the Forest Preserve staff? The County Board members do listen to input from taxpayers, however, the Forest Preserve staff turns a deaf ear to both the taxpayers and the County Board. The Forest Preserve staff has its own agenda. Changes should be made to the staff.

Governor's highway

Grant Township recently honored the memory of their late native son, Governor William Stratton, with the unveiling of a portrait of him hung in the township Stratton Room.

I suggest that an even better way to honor the former governor, who held office from 1952-1960, would be to extend Route 53 into Lake and McHenry counties. This would be a major step in cost effectively alleviating traffic congestion, improving the safety of our roads, help provide more family life for motorist as Route 53 will lessen the hundred or more hours they annually spend in traffic congestion.

Let's name the expressway after Gov. Stratton, who first proposed it in a conversation with the then governor of Wisconsin. Both governors said they would build an expressway to meet at Richmond. One was able to keep his word.

SEEING

interview, and Tim Russert put on the screen his quote during the 2000 election debate that he opposes regime change around the world, he was forced to admit that what is happening in Iraq right now is regime change.

I remember when then President Richard Nixon said that after the Vietnam War he serious doubted "that we will ever have another war." So many others thought that we should have learned our lesson in that war.

It has often been said that wars are declared by older men but it is the young who must fight and die. That is why war should always be a very last resort. One life lost in a war that could have been avoided is one too many.

Why did Congress support President Bush's entry into war? I'm not sure that they thought that they would have been called un-American if "they didn't support their President." To me, it would have been totally American to have a full debate before we send our troops in harm's way. We didn't learn anything from Vietnam; we had better learn something from Iraq. We cannot be the policemen of the world, putting out, or starting fires, which become wars, all over the world.

There will be many issues to debate in the months ahead. I don't believe any is as important as the WAR...and WHAT GOT US THERE. Our youth have sacrificed enough. Whoever said that wars are too serious to be entrusted to the military could have added and also too serious to be entrusted to politicians who look toward the next election. We need statesmen who look to the next generation.

Residents warned of deed scam

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
carels@lakelandmedia.com

Homeowners are being warned by the Lake County Recorder of Deeds office of a scam involving the sale of certified copies of deeds.

While the offer to provide certified copies of deeds from a source other than the Recorder of Deeds office is not illegal, it is unnecessary and expensive, said Recorder of Deeds, Mary Ellen Vanderventer.

Homeowners can obtain certified copies of deeds to their property for $18 by calling or visiting the Recorder of Deeds office.

A Northbrook company, called Illinois Deed Provider, Inc. is sending official looking letters to homeowners in the county, offering to provide the same service for $75 plus $4.50 for postage and handling.

Vanderventer suspects that the company requested the certified copies from the Recorder of Deeds, which is perfectly legal under the public information laws.

Armed with homeowners' addresses and document numbers, the company proceeded to re-sell the information to them at a huge profit.

"This doesn't break the law, but it sure breaks the spirit of the law," Vanderventer said.

The form letter requests credit card information to process the request, something that consumers should give out with caution.

Early in the month the office started receiving telephone calls and facsimiles about the offer, mostly from around the Highland Park area. Now complaints are coming from residents countywide.

"I've been flooded with letters, our phones are ringing off the hook," Vanderventer said.

To inform residents of the scam, the office has appeared on the Lake County television station, LCTV, and contacted the media to let people know that they don't have to spend a lot of money or have a third party to obtain a certified copy of their deed for them.

Vanderventer said this scam was new to her office. More frequently are low mortgage scams that turn out to cost more than promised.

The $18 charged by the Recorder of Deeds is a statutory fee, and postage and handling charges are not added on to that.

Vanderventer recommends anyone with a question regarding their deeds, or wanting a certified copy, to contact the Recorder of Deeds at 847-377-2575.

Babe Ruth card to go on sale

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
bbeitscher@lakelandmedia.com

Baseball fans and card collectors will have a chance to bid on a rare 1933 Babe Ruth baseball card during the first week in April, when the village of Lindenhurst puts the item up for auction on eBay.

The card, number 53 in a series of 240, published by the Goudey Gum Co. of Boston, was acquired seven years ago when a merchant contacted the police department, concerned that the card might be stolen.

The police gave the card to the village, which authorized the sale of the item last month.

A Professional Sports Authentication rating was given to the card. PSA ratings range from 1 (poor-fair) to 10 (perfect "mint"). The 1933 Babe Ruth card was rated PSA-2 (good). The card, encased in a Plexiglas block, and stored in a velvet presentation case, shows some signs of wear.

"The corners are rounded (by wear)," Snyder said. "But it is a Babe Ruth card."

Although the condition of the card garnered a low rating, its collectible value is estimated at $1,200 to1,500.When posted, the auction will be found at eBay.com.

State Sens. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) were honored by Catholic Charities of Lake County this month.

The organization presented the lawmakers with its Silver Plate Award for "exceptional and outstanding support for Catholic Charities' Meals on Wheels Program in Lake County."

"We truly do appreciate their support over the years and anticipate their future support," said Frank Philips with Catholic Charities. "Both lawmakers are very strong advocates of the Meals on Wheels programs and have truly demonstrated their support."

Catholic Charities of Lake County is a multi-service agency, which helps children, families, and older adults through counseling, welfare, advocacy, emergency assistance, information and referral. The Meals on Wheels program delivers and serves hot, nutritious meals to seniors unable to cook for themselves and who have no one to cook for them.

CBFS CARE program wins accreditation

The CARE Day Treatment Program of Central Baptist Family Services (CBFS) has received accreditation from the Council on Accreditation (COA).

A national association that accredits public agencies and private providers of child and family services and behavioral health services, COA determines accreditation following a rigorous process of self-study and peer review. The accreditation means that the CARE Day Treatment Program provides the highest standard of service in a well-managed and responsible organization.

Laura Franz, Senior Vice President, explained that the COA team spent several days reviewing and analyzing agency programs including the CARE Day Treatment Program. The team visited the site in Lake Villa and observed the program and met with staff and youth.

"The COA accreditation assures parents that they will get the best possible therapeutic day treatment for their child," Franz said.

CBFS' Day Treatment Program serves youth whose needs can not be met in a traditional school setting. Currently, 26 teens participate in the program at the Lake Villa location at 215 N, Milwaukee Ave.

Three teachers with experience in education and behavior intervention supervise three classrooms, with 10 students each. Licensed therapists provide group and individual counseling during the course of the day as well as in-home family counseling and support. The environment is nurturing and structured so that youth are able to incorporate needed changes before transitioning back to the public school environment.

CARE Day Treatment has been offered by CBFS since the 1970s and has served over 100 teens. In a structured, therapeutic environment, the youth learn to deal with their emotions and feelings so they can learn effectively.

For more information on the CARE Day Treatment Program contact John Zupancic, Program Supervisor, or Laura Franz, Senior Vice President, at 847.245.6584 or email Franz at lfranz@cbfamilies.org.

ELECTION

ers at her victory party at the Prairie Rock Restaurant in Schaumburg.

"Voters tonight have embraced the change we so desperately need," Bean said, "and I am honored to have their confidence that I will carry us to victory in November and provide our families with active representation in Congress."

Bean added, "We deserve a representative who will get up every single day determined to work for what matters most to our families," Bean said, "I will fight to restore fiscal responsibility in Congress.

"I'll work to bring economic development and jobs to our district, and I'll demand a better return on our federal taxes than the fifty cents for every dollar we're currently getting. If Phil Crane had the answers to any of these problems, we would have seen them by now."

Crane commented on his victory.

"I'm gratified to have the support of my fellow Republicans in the 8th District. I'm looking forward to talking with constituents about issues that will play a role in this fall's campaign.

"I will continue to work on issues important to people here at home," Crane said. Some of these issues include: Bringing home federal dollars through the TEA-3 bill to help improve the condition of our roads and to alleviate traffic congestion.

Securing federal funding for regional projects in Lake, Cook and McHenry Counties that support local jobs, improve and protect the environment, and support local law enforcement and education programs.

Working to provide uninsured Americans access to affordable health insurance by allowing individuals to deduct 100 percent of the premiums from their high-deductible insurance when used in conjunction with Health Savings Accounts.

"I will continue my work to make the tax cuts permanent for Illinois taxpayers, and

CASINO

"I was shocked," said Ray Vukovich, Waukegan's director of governmental services, of the decision.

Vukovich had studied gaming legislation for the past 12 years. Precluded from the original legislation because Cook County and Lake Michigan were excluded, the city worked to change legislation.

"And when this license became available we worked to get it, only to be put out," Vukovich said.

Rosemont edged out the competition by offering to earn tax dollars faster than the other bidders, gaming officials said.

Factoring into its decision was the fact that Rosemont had threatened to sue if it didn't receive the license.

It had an Illinois Appellate Court decision to back up the threat that said it was illegal to put the casino anywhere but in Rosemont, according to the city's attorneys.

A lawsuit could have tied up the license in court, preventing the state from receiving tax revenue quickly.

The decision brought bitter criticism from losing bidders and state officials, who said the process was corrupt and threatened the state's gambling reputation.

"If this doesn't smell, nothing smells," said Senator Terry Link (R-Vernon Hills) of the resolution.

"They ruled that Waukegan was the leading bidder two different times. If they were the leading bidder, what made it change," he asked. "It was an obvious situation that was predetermined prior to this ever being done."

Link said the gaming board failed to follow legislation that economically deprived communities be considered and that arguments that Harrah's Entertainment might corner the market with three licenses in the state was debatable.

Rosemont will "cannibalize" existing boats, Link said, and won't generate the income that Waukegan would by bringing in new business.

"It's a black mark on the state of Illinois. And if this board resigned tomorrow it wouldn't be too soon as far as I'm concerned."

Illinois Attorney General, Lisa Madigan, in a statement Monday expressed surprise over the gaming board's choice of Rosemont.

Madigan said it was "imperative" that the gaming board provide details to the public regarding its decision.

Past statements by the attorney general have indicated that if she disapproved of the license sale terms she would oppose the agreement in bankruptcy court, where the sale must be ratified.

Waukegan had planned to use the profits from the casino to accelerate its downtown revitalization project.

Projected to take 20-25 years to complete, revenues from the casino were expected to cut that time almost in half, said Hyde.

Hyde has long maintained that surrounding communities and school districts would have benefited from the casino's revenues.

While the location of the proposed casino was slated for a TIF district encompassing the demolished Lakehurst Shopping Mall, Hyde said that Harrah's would not be using TIF money.

"That means that the gaming taxes from that would be available immediately to the Warren and Gurnee school districts," he said.

Now Hyde accused the gaming board of forgetting the people that casino revenues would have benefited.

"It just goes to show you when money and politics get involved, they forget about people and people are the most important part," he said.

Gurnee Mayor, Donald Rudny, who opposed the location of the casino in Waukegan, supported the gaming board's decision.

"The gaming board studied all of the input and made a tough decision," he said. "You were going to be criticized no matter what decision you made."

Rudny added that his objections were with the way the state handles gaming licenses rather than with the city of Waukegan's plans for a casino. The expansion of gambling in the state has not been a solution to Illinois' problems, he said.

"Gambling hasn't been implemented well in the state of Illinois," he said. "I think the citizens of Illinois should start looking at the elected officials that support this expansion and start looking for new leadership."

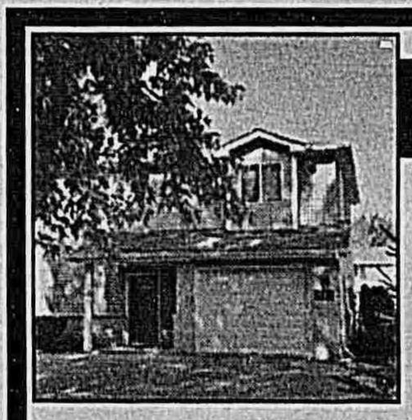

The city of Waukegan is consulting attorneys to see if there is the potential for a lawsuit against the gaming board.

"I don't know exactly what's going to happen," Hyde said. "It will be up to them (attorneys)."

Warren falls to Waukegan in sectional final; Bulldogs win first title since '75

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

The mood was somber in the Warren locker room after Friday night's 51-42 loss to Waukegan in the sectional title game.

It was the final high school game for a quartet of seniors, including Casey Pond, Jacob Patrick, Pat Bodame and Kevin Hagan, and it was easy to see the defeat and disappointment on their faces.

But Warren coach Chuck Ramsey chose instead to focus on the positive—namely the contributions of the seniors.

"I'm real proud of the seniors," Ramsey said. "They're all men. They're good teammates and good people. I admire them; it's tough to go out there and grind it out every day."

The Warren underclassmen were down as well. But they know they'll be back, and they also know the loss will provide valuable experience.

"This game will have a big influence on us for next year," Warren sophomore Jordan Dalton said.

Ramsey added: "If we can learn from this loss, it will help us a lot."

Waukegan led the game wire-to-wire, as Dexter Landry (8 points, 7 boards) opened the game up with a layup to give the Bulldogs an early 2-0 lead.

Warren sophomore Mitchell Moore answered right back with a layup to tie the game but the Bulldogs went right down the floor and retook the lead on a trey from Laron Frazier, a lead the Bulldogs would never relinquish.

"We were able to get the lead and do what we needed to do to preserve it," Waukegan coach Brian Colbert said.

Waukegan started to pull away in the second quarter, taking a 19-10 lead on a Frazier bucket with 6:05 left in the quarter, until Pond brought the Devils right back with back-to-back threes to cut the lead to 19-16. Pond finished with a game-high 18 points, including 8-of-10 from the free-throw line.

The Bulldogs again threatened to pull away, taking a 40-28 lead with 6:23 left, but once again the Devils came roaring back with an 8-2 run to cut the lead to 42-36 with 2:43 left to play.

The Devils had a chance to cut further into the lead on several possessions, but rushed several shots, showing their inexperience.

"We rushed some shots at times," said Ramsey, whose team shot 16-for-45 (36 percent) for the game. "So our inexperience did hurt us. But I've seen experienced teams do the same."

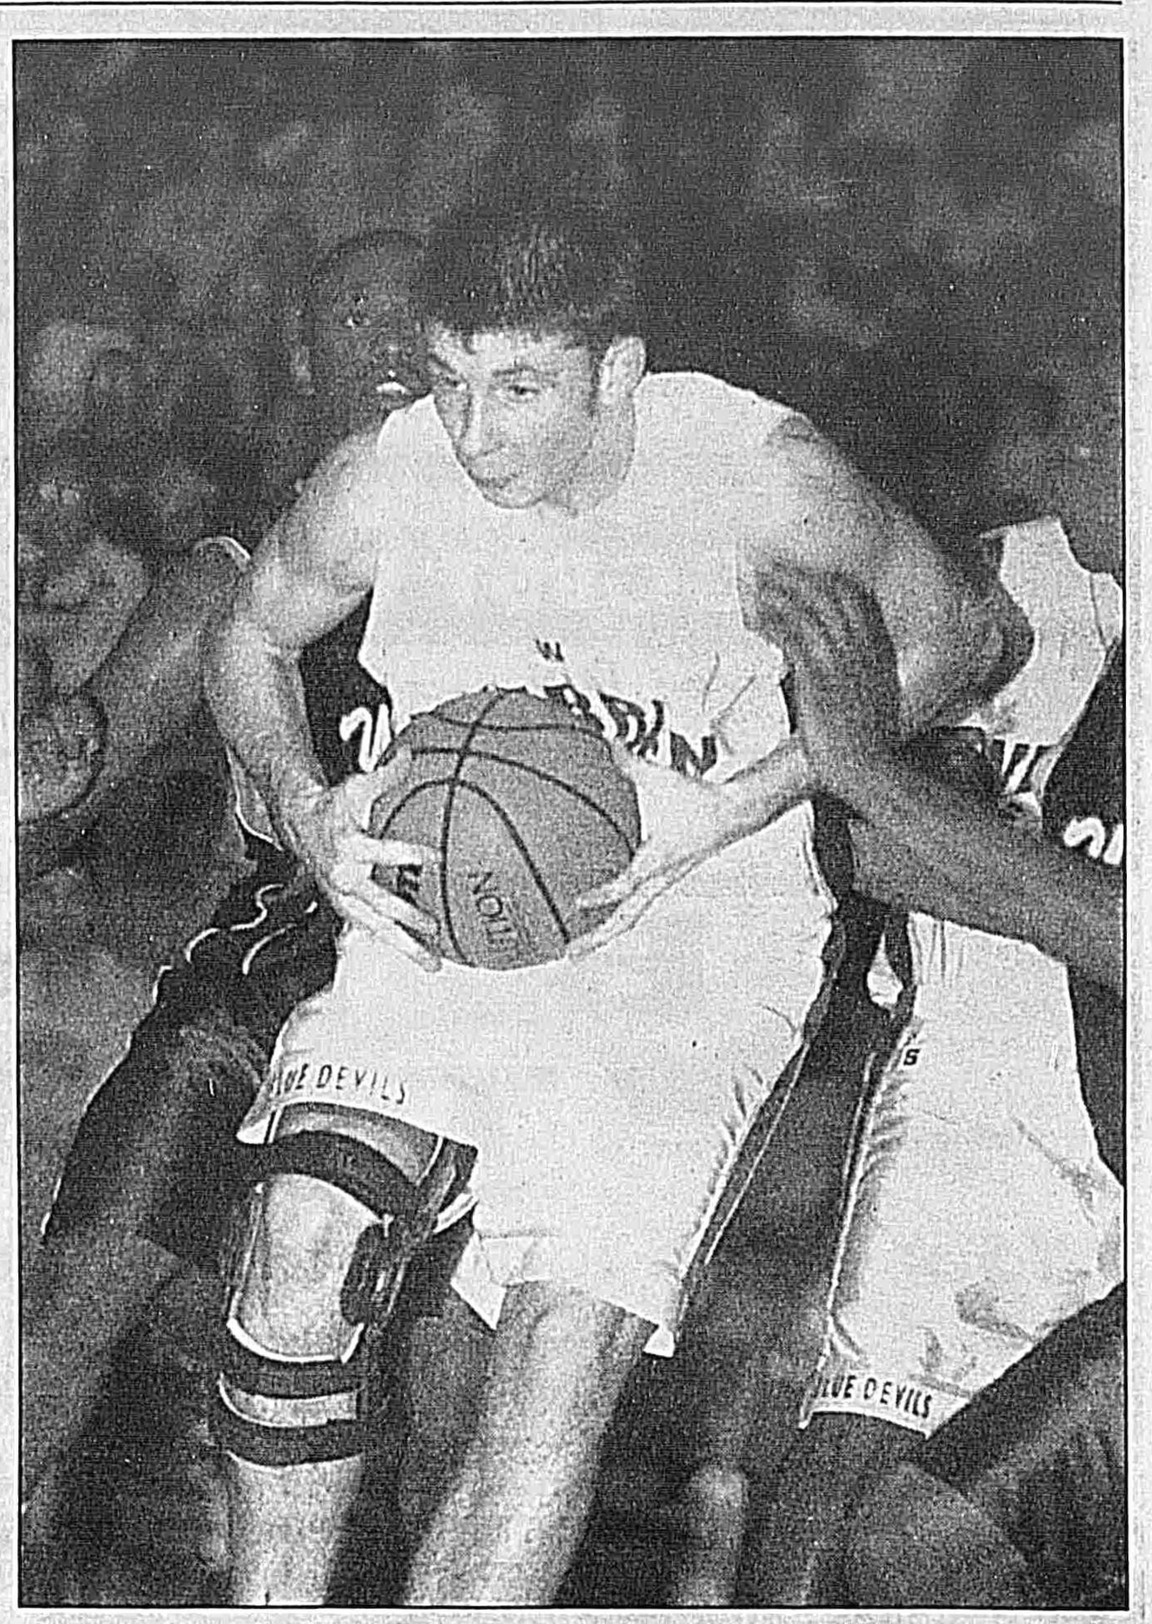

Waukegan nailed 9-of-10 free throws down the stretch to seal the win, giving the team its first sectional title since 1975.

"It feels great to be part of the first Waukegan team to win a sectional since '75," said Frazier, who finished with nine points.

Fred Finley led Waukegan with 14 points, while Emanuel Gaiter chipped in 12 points, 10 boards and 5 steals.

Marvin Bembry added 10 points for Warren, which fell to 17-12 with the loss.

Waukegan went on to lose the Super-Sectional title game at Loyola to Hoffman Estates, 54-45. The Bulldogs' final record was 18-12.

On Golden Pond

Warren senior Casey Pond brings the ball up the floor in the Devils' 51-42 loss to Waukegan in the sectional final.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

By JOHN PHELPS
Lakeland Correspondent

Casey Pond looked across the court at Jacob Patrick. There was the obvious feeling of disappointment. But there was also a sense of satisfaction.

"I told him (Jacob) to take it all in and that you'll never forget this," Pond said to his fellow senior and running mate following the Devils 51-42 loss to in front of a packed and raucous crowd that was on hand for the sectional final at Waukegan's Dog Pound. "It's hard to believe it's over. But it's been a great ride."

It sure has been a nice go at it for the 6-foot, 1-inch shooting guard.

It was perhaps easy to overlook Pond during a season where head coach Chuck Ramsey started anywhere up to three sophomores.

But Pond started every game while Patrick also saw regular playing time, if not starting himself.

The "young guns" needed someone to look up to, someone to follow.

Pond was the main guy who filled that role and nicely, we might add.

"From his scoring to his leadership, he carried us from day one this season," Ramsey said. "He was a constant for us and one of our best defensive players. He's also a very smart player and a good shooter and he shows up every day."

Pond quietly led Warren in scoring this year with close to 16 points per game. His season, as well as career-high was 30 points against whom else—Waukegan—in the opening round of the Thanksgiving tournament hosted by Fremd High School.

Pond was right on that mark in the sectional title game against the Waukegan, hitting for a game-high 18. The usually silky-smooth jump shot struggled a bit at times but when Warren needed that clutch basket or free throw, Pond delivered.

"You always get pumped up when you can play in the Old East Gym for sectionals: it's a very special atmosphere and very electrifying. I was just trying to do everything I could to help us win," said Pond, a two-year varsity member and two-time All-North Suburban selection. He was also Lakeland Media's "Newcomer of the Year" in 2002-03.

Pond did everything he could to keep Warren within striking distance. His two free throws with 1:52 left in regulation had drawn the Devils to within six (44-38). However, the Waukegan put the game on ice by closing the game with a 7-2 spurt.

"I just wanted to leave it all on the floor, no matter what the outcome was," Pond said.

As for those "young guns", Pond likes Warren's chances heading into next year.

"I think they definitely have the ability to be state-bound," he said. "Man, there's a lot of talent on this team. They're going to be good for a while."

They were pretty good this year, finishing 17-12 overall and tied for second in the NSC Lake division at 7-3.

They came a long way, but they had a pretty good leader.

forget."

In 1933 there were about 9 million Jews living in the 21 European countries that would be occupied by Germany during World War II. By the war's conclusion in 1945, two out of every three of those Jews had been killed.

While Jews were the primary victims, Gypsies, Soviet prisoners of war, homosexuals, Jehovah's Witnesses and the mentally and physically disabled, as well as many other innocent people were maltreated, persecuted and/or killed for their beliefs and behaviors.

Rogers never saw her birthmother Mutti, or her brother Peter, after she was taken to Stuttgart. Both Mutti and Peter died in Auschwitz.

While Nazi Germany defined "Jew" as anyone with three Jewish grandparents, or someone with two Jewish grandparents who identifies oneself as a Jew, Rogers said she never knew what a Jew was, and no one would tell her.

She said, "You process things differently when you are young. It sounds utterly ridiculous to say now, but I wanted to be like everyone else. I was devastated that I couldn't be part of the Hitler Youth so I could wear a uniform and march in the parades. All I knew is that I was different, but I didn't know why."

In hopes of saving her from persecution, Rogers' unofficial stepfather had her confirmed by a Lutheran minister at 12 years old, and earlier had her sprinkled with holy water by a Catholic priest, both acts to no avail.

She was hidden, shunned and made to bear witness to unfathomable atrocities, all before turning 15 years old. Hunger and bombed-out buildings were just the tip of the iceberg for Rogers who found the family maid when she hung herself, overheard her dad's regret for having talked her birthmother out of taking her own life as well as that of her brother, had no ration card, stole food from Nazi farms and was forced, at the age of 12, to be an official air-raid warden.

In her book, Rogers tells snapshot stories with simplicity and candor of specific instances as she remembers them, with no chronology. "I don't tell them from my point of view now, as an adult, but as I lived them and with my thoughts as a child," she said.

In conversation, it's much the same.

"I was kicked out of school when I was 9 or 10 (years old), along with another boy," she said. "My teacher had forged my papers. An assembly was called and it was done in front of the whole school. I couldn't understand it; to me, I was the same. My teacher was taken out and killed."

Of the incident, Rogers wrote, "I ran all the way home. And I took off all my clothes and stood in front of Mom's tall mirror. I wanted to check again if I looked any different than before. I had done this when I could not get in the Bundes Maedel. But nothing has changed. I do not have a tail. Or anything else that is different."

Her dad promised her that she would be educated in his home and that she would be "smarter than the Nazis running around." He hired a tutor for her, a college professor who lost his job because he wouldn't join "the party."

"He was very tough on me, and I had to study every day, even Sunday. If I made one little mistake, I had to start all over again," she said. "But I guess my dad was right, because I did get a good education."

Part of that education included studying English, though with her dad and not the professor.

She said, "We had this funny radio with a little gas flame. I couldn't get anyone to believe me about that until I saw one in the Chicago Broadcast Museum. Anyway, we would listen to programs like 'Voice of America.' We would have been in really big trouble if we had ever been caught."

While Rogers describes some sweet and tender moments, most of her childhood memories are tarnished by the horrific circumstances under which everyone in Germany was forced to live.

She said she hated Jews almost as much as she hated the Nazis.

"My feelings about the Jews and the Nazis were really about equal. All I knew was if I wasn't a Jew, this wouldn't be happening," Rogers said. "I was a very clean little girl, but I was always referred to as 'dirty little Jew.' No one would ever tell me what a Jew was."

Rogers said she wasn't the only one conflicted by personal circumstances.

"There were people who were just afraid-afraid to help. They had loyalties that were split," she said.

In her book, Rogers tells of the dentist who lived next door. She describes him as "a big Nazi, a Gauleiter (a committeeman) and Brown Shirt (SA, abbreviation of Stuermabteilungen, the Storm Troops of the early Nazi party, organized in 1921)." Yet, he is the one who informed her dad when it was time for her to visit the nuns to hide.

She wrote, "But Dad had me swear on the Bible not to tell anyone that Dr. B helps to hide me. I am not sure I like that man. He never talks to me, and acts as if I was not there."

Later, Rogers testified in court when Dr. B was tried for being a Gauleiter.

"I told all I knew, including the fact that without Dr. B's help, I would not have survived," she wrote. "I do not know if Dr. B had to serve any time or anything. I hope not."

When the war ended, Rogers was 14 years old and was given special permission to work for the U.S. Army, first as a mimeograph operator and later as an interpreter and secretary. She met her former husband, married and moved to the United States in 1952, living mostly in the Chicago area and working "regular" jobs when her four children came of school age.

Rogers has 10 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

"I have always been politically active, because I don't want something like this to happen again," she said. "I don't think it could in a big country like the United States. I think it's more a problem in small countries where one person can become powerful and brain wash every person into believing they are the best. I think it was that way with Saddam Hussein and what he did to the Kurds."

Rogers has a speaking engagement at the Antioch Public Library on Thursday, March 25 at 7 p.m. For more information call the library at 847-395-0874.

Please Put Me Down
By Edith Rogers

Just because the fires are burning all over town,
You are carrying me like a baby,
Please put me down.

Why won't you let me walk on my own?

A lot of store windows and the temples are shattered.
You have tears in your eyes,
You keep shaking your head.

But to me, none of that really mattered.
I am not a baby,
Please put me down.

Why won't you let me walk on my own?

You tell me I must never forget
What I am seeing here tonight.
I must be proud of my heritage,
No matter the 'others' power and might.

That it is a horrible thing the Nazis are doing.
Surely their day of reckoning will be forthcoming.

You have talked like this before and I really do listen.
And yet, what if my friends are around?
They'll think I'm a baby, please put me down.

Why won't you let me walk on my own?

The years have gone by,
Some memories fade.
Broken glass and fires still generate
A certain fear and horror in my soul.

It took so many lifetimes for me to understand,
By carrying me in your arms and hand
You saved my life that very night,
So long ago.

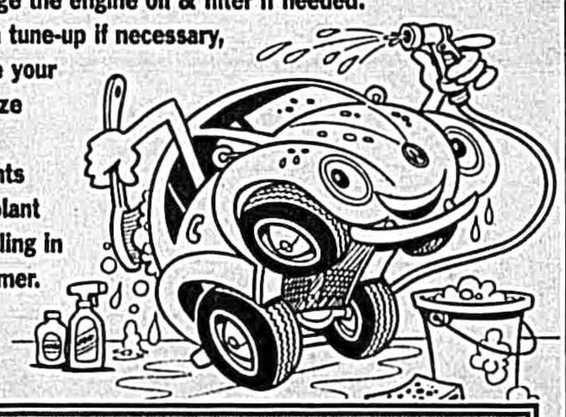

And many other times too, I now know.
It is far too late to tell you how grateful I am
That you never listened to my moan and groan.
I could not have walked through the Holocaust alone.

Thank God, you did not put me down.

REFRESH YOUR CAR FOR SPRING AND SUMMER

After a long winter, it's important to get your car back in tip-top shape. Here are some car care tips to help you, courtesy of www.mrlube.com.

1. A good hand wash of your vehicle is very important in the spring. Take some time to check out the condition of the paint while you're washing and make note of any chips or scratches. If you do find some minor damage, buy some touch-up paint as soon as possible to prevent any rust from forming.
2. Spray the salt and dirt out of your wheel wells and repair any rust if necessary.
3. A good waxing is great for your paint job after winter.
4. Check the windshield for stone chips or cracks. It often isn't necessary to replace the entire windshield, just repair the chips.
5. Replace worn out wiper blades.
6. Check your tire pressure, for having the proper pressure will maximize gas mileage and prevent wear & tear.
7. Change the engine oil & filter if needed.
8. Get a tune-up if necessary, and have your anti-freeze tested. It prevents your coolant from boiling in the summer.

Please pass the gas

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Dr. Singer,

I know you have written about this in the past so I don't feel completely embarrassed about my question. I have a husband who has a great deal of fun with the kids about passing gas. He's really just a big kid himself. His favorite comedy routine is Bill Cosby Himself when he talks about how his Dad used to pass gas and blame it on invisible animals. If you haven't heard it, try to. It's really hysterical. I don't usually have a problem with this when it is inside of our own home, but the other night, we were out at a restaurant with some friends of our family when one of the boys leaned over sideways and let one rip, for lack of a better term. And it was a ripper! I almost crawled under the table. Of course, everyone at the table was laughing except for me. They all told me to lighten up but I am not sure that I should let this one go without some form of lesson for the perpetrator of this gaseous offense. Should I let it go or not? S.A.S.

Hi S.A.S.,

Sounds like you all had a 'blast.' Sorry, I could not resist! It seems that most of us do not ever outgrow our fun with flatulence. I know many people, adults and kids alike who have a lot of laughs over things like this. It sounds like your real problem here is not the passing of the gas, but the unwarned public display of it. So, you might try to explain to the children that if they want to have fun at home it's one thing, but going into public and doing bathroom behaviors, is not acceptable to you, even if it may be to Dad. I don't want to tell you to have Dad stop having fun with the kids at home because it sounds like they have a very good time and it really is pretty harmless if it's just them at home. Of course, I guess that depends on what they all had for dinner. Just be ready to open the windows!

It might be good for Dad to be the one who talks with them about doing this at home versus out in the world. Since he is the one they do this with, they may mistakenly feel it's o.k. to do it anywhere they are together. Although, it might be hard for Dad to do this, since he has so much fun with it. You may need to be there for moral support.

If the kids won't stop doing it in public, even with Dad telling them not to do it, you and Dad either need to emphatically make your position known and follow up with appropriate consequences, accept it, or resolve to not go out with all of them together with other friends so you avoid the embarrassment altogether. I do think that they need to learn to not do this kind of thing in public now so they do not become adults who do that in public. Something tells me that if they do that, they will not be very popular once out of a College age crowd. College age kids live for this stuff!

Hopefully one of these suggestions will work for you. In the meantime, make sure you pack your clothes pin!

Try it and see... is assisted living right for you or your loved one?

The Assisted Living Suites at The Village at Victory Lakes (Lindenhurst) offer a short-term (respite) stay program that allows seniors the chance to experience life in an assisted living environment for a trial period of anywhere from one week to three months.

"Many times, seniors find they need help with daily activities but they're not sure if assisted living is the right choice or which program they would feel most comfortable in," says Edee Gunther, Director of Assisted Living, Village at Victory Lakes. "Our respite program gives them the chance to try assisted living without making a major commitment."

The assisted living respite program at The Village at Victory Lakes has proven useful to people looking for a temporary care arrangement, also. Sometimes people recovering from a major illness or surgery are not comfortable returning home from the hospital because they need extra assistance for a time. Or, someone whose family caregiver plans an out of town vacation can find a short stay at assisted living helpful.

People in the respite care program live in furnished assisted living suites, which include a tea kitchen (cabinets, sink, refrigerator and microwave), living and bedroom spaces, closets and full bathroom with walk-in shower. Respite care residents enjoy the same amenities as full-time assisted living residents at The Village. That includes three nutritious meals per day, assistance with personal care, laundry, housekeeping, scheduled transportation and 24-hour security. In addition, they take part in the close community of neighbors and staff at The Village at Victory Lakes' many cultural, social and educational activities.

Assisted Living at The Village at Victory Lakes is a state-licensed program, staffed with qualified professionals 24-hours a day.

How to keep your sanity .....
(and your job) while planning your wedding

Working full-time or have friends and relatives spread all over the country or world? If you answered yes to either question, planning a wedding can be a logistical nightmare; but for savvy brides and grooms-to-be, online wedding planning has become a lifesaver.

Lourdes Reigosa, a Web developer and advisory committee member for the Multimedia & Web Design department of The Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale recently planned much of her own wedding online. She believes the Internet has revolutionized the way people plan a wedding. "With 165.75 million Internet users in the U.S., and so many excellent search engines available, it's no wonder that planning a wedding online has become so popular," says Reigosa.

According to Millie Martini Bratten, editor in chief of Bride's Magazine, "The Internet has become an invaluable tool for couples planning their weddings." Seventy three percent of Bride's readers log on to the Web regularly for pre-wedding research, including everything from fashion and beauty styles to etiquette advice and inspirational reception ideas," says Bratten.

But for some, the idea of planning a wedding, or ordering wedding-related merchandise online, is a bit nerve wracking. How do you know what you're getting is really what you want for the big day?

Stephanie Dowling, public relations director for The Art Institute of Phoenix, is doing much of her wedding planning online; however, she recommends whenever possible, having someone validate your decisions. Dowling chose an island in the Caribbean for her May '04 wedding. "We have never been to the location we chose, so we used the Internet to help us find a beach (for the ceremony), a reception location, minister, photographer, videographer, flowers and a wedding planner," she says. However, when Dowling's wedding planner heard she was booking rooms at a particular villa, "She told us not to because it would have put our guests on the other side of the island."

Britta Wheeler, academic adviser at The Art Institute of New York City, used a source she found online to pick the perfect silk for her wedding gown, but also made phone calls directly to the supplier. "I'm from Nebraska, and as it turned out, the fabric source I used was a stone's throw from where I grew up," says Wheeler. She recommends taking advantage of expertise you can find online, or over the phone. Wheeler used the search engine "Google" to locate silk, and then called for swatches to help her make her final decision.

For many soon-to-married couples, creating a wedding Web site has been key to keeping wedding planning organized and sane. Dowling and her fiancée set up a wedding Web site to keep track of RSVPs. They've also done all their registries and shopping through online services. "Our registries convert to store registries, so our guests have the ease of purchasing online or in-store for our gifts," she says.

For brides-to-be looking for the perfect invitation or wedding favor, the Web offers great solutions. "Many sites let you order samples," says Reigosa. "If you're looking at invitations online, you can usually get free samples. For wedding favors, many Web sites offer an opportunity to purchase one sample, at a low price."

If you're looking for personal feedback from other couples planning weddings, Kirsten Wright, graduate employment advisor for The Art Institute of Washington, says she has found wedding chatrooms very helpful. But keep in mind, despite everybody being in the same boat — engaged, that is — people's style, taste, and dreams of a wedding vary greatly.

So, Wright says to "trust your instincts, and stick with your own style." Web sites she recommends include www.Brides.com, www.nola.com, www.felicite.com, www.theknot.com and www.weddingchannel.com.

Is there anything that shouldn't be ordered online for a wedding? "I would have to say the dress, although, it's a very valuable tool in researching dresses. I located stores — all on the Web — and then went in person to try dresses on," says Dowling.

For many soon-to-married couples, creating a wedding Web site has been key to keeping wedding planning organized and sane.

Pictures for memories lasting a lifetime

Amidst all the planning and bustle, a wedding can fly by for the bride and groom, barely giving them enough time to enjoy their special day. Photographers and videographers help preserve the special moments before, during and after the ceremony, capturing moments that will last a lifetime.

Photographers and videographers are versatile and can mingle with your guests, taking pictures and taping various parties at your reception. Many of these images the bride and groom never see while at the reception and help share moments that might have been missed.

The best bet is to ask friends and relatives for photographic references. Browse through their wedding albums to see if you like their photographers' work. If you have more photographers to choose from, couples can make a selection that will fit their budget and the style of photography they desire at their wedding.

When selecting a photographer, take a look at their portfolio to see what style of photographs they take. Question the photographer about how many pictures will be taken at each site, what photo packages they offer and the cost of each, what size prints are offered in what format, the cost per print and how much the deposit will be.

Discuss when you would like to have pictures taken. Sometimes taking pictures after a ceremony, when guests have already left, alleviates stress on the bride and groom caused by a crunched time schedule. Also decide whether you would like mostly candids or posed photographs.

Many couples also inquire about black and white photography, which has become very popular, as an option to be included in their photography package. Black and white photos emphasize textures and details, such as buttons and bows, placing the focus on the subject rather than the color.

Many couples choose to have a separate album for black and white photos. Black and white photos can also have hand-colored oils added, adding subtle color accents to the photograph, while the attention still remains focused on the subjects. Pictures taken with regular film are usually developed one to two weeks after the event.

Digital photography is popular with couples who wish to put their prints on a web site for distant relatives and friends to view. The image quality is less sharp, but can be viewed right after they have been taken. Many photographers charge twice as much for digital photography, so be aware of the cost if you have allotted a certain amount of money in your budget for a photographer.

When choosing which prints for your wedding album, separate the pictures into different groups. This will make choosing a few favorite pictures from each group easier. Making a decision regarding which prints you want to include in your album can take many weeks before a final decision is made.

Wedding videos can be the next best thing to being at the ceremony. Videos are great for people who couldn't make it to share your special day.

Couples should hire the videographer whom they are most comfortable with. This will ensure they will look relaxed and natural in their video.

View some tapes the videographer has taken from previous weddings to get a feel for what to expect as a final product. Different editing options can also be discussed, such as dissolves, text, graphics and adding music to the tape.

Don't forget to ask the videographer about the type of packages they offer, as well as what type of equipment they will be using. Some videographers use multiple cameras to capture the wedding ceremony and reception, which might increase the overall cost for making the video.

If you plan on making multiple copies, ask how many tapes are included in each package and if the cost is included in the package price. If not, ask about the cost per tape and how much time is required to make duplicates.

When hiring a photographer or videographer for your wedding, start looking early. Services should be booked nine to 12 months in advance to ensure you will have the perfect photographer or videographer to capture that special moment in life.

Plan the perfect wedding shower

A wedding shower should be fun for everyone involved: the bride, the guests, and even the hostess. A little advance planning ensures that happens.

First, a bit of etiquette: the shower is usually hosted by the maid or matron of honor, or a close family friend. The guest list should include only people who have been invited to the wedding, unless the shower is hosted by co-workers. Showers are traditionally held a month or two before the wedding; this can be a very stressful and busy time for the bride, so make sure the date fits into her schedule before making all the arrangements.

Showers are supposed to help the bride and groom equip their new home, so they're often planned around a specific theme: recipe showers, camping showers, linen showers, etc. In choosing a theme, consider things that are important to the bride. Does she love to cook? Consider a recipe party. Does she like to entertain? How about a "stock the bar" shower? Is the couple moving into a new home after the wedding? A tool shower can help them collect the essentials they'll need. Once you decide on a theme, you can use it to tie in decorations, gifts, even the food and games.

• Invitations

The theme starts here. For a cooking shower, send invitations written on recipe cards, or cut out leaf shapes for a garden shower. Make it clear if guests are expected to bring a certain type of gift.

• Decorations

Your local party supply store is a good place to start, and the Internet is also a great resource. Look for paper goods that carry out your theme — a floral design for a garden shower, for example. Another good option is to decorate for the shower in the colors the bride has chosen for her wedding.

• Food

Showers usually involve a light lunch or appetizers. Tastefully Simple sells gourmet food products that make it easy to put together an impressive menu. Most of the company's products require only one or two ingredients to prepare, or can be enjoyed right out of the package. For example, the Creamy Wild Rice Soup mix can be used to make a delicious wild rice casserole that can be the main course of your menu. Or spread softened cream cheese on flour tortillas, top with Sweet Pepper Jalapeno Jam, roll tortillas, chill and slice into spirals for beautiful hors d'oeuvres.

The company's Web site has a complete selection of products and more serving and menu ideas. You can even choose Tastefully Simple as your shower theme. A consultant will organize a home taste-testing party, offering samples, easy meal ideas, recipes and serving suggestions. Guests can order for themselves and for the bride.

• Games

People tend to be split into two camps where shower games are concerned — either they think no shower would be complete without them, or they'd rather visit the dentist than play them. Take your lead from the bride on this one; after all, it's her party. Check your local bookstore, library, or the Internet for party game ideas. Chances are you'll be able to find a game that ties in with your theme. For example, if you're having a recipe shower, you could play the apron game: attach a variety of kitchen utensils to an apron and have the bride put it on and model it for a couple of minutes, then leave the room. Have guests write down as many items as they can remember; the person with the longest list wins.

• Party favors

While party favors are not essential, they are a nice touch. Choose wisely, and your party favors can double as part of your decorative theme. For example, for a garden party, use small potted plants with guests' names painted on the pots as a place card on the table. When the party is over, guests can take the plant home as a memento. You can also use personalized photo frames, champagne flutes or candles in the same way. If you're throwing a kitchen shower, send guests home with a tasty treat such as spinach and herb mix, or their garlic garlic and bacon bacon dip mixes.

Use these tips to plan the perfect shower. You'll be a relaxed, gracious hostess and the bride will have a very special day to remember.

Simple ideas for creative wedding favors

Your guests celebrated your special day with you — a gift in and of itself. A traditional way to show your gratitude is with a wedding favor. Ornate or simply made and elegant, these small gifts invariably send a big message, expressing appreciation for your guests' participation in the wedding. They also serve as mementos of this special day.

The ideas for favors are endless, but here are a few to get you started. You can spend a lot or a little money — it's up to you. Just make them special.

Go seasonal. Give a gift in the spirit of the season. For February, do Valentine's chocolates, sunscreen or beach balls for summer affairs, or plastic pumpkins filled with candy corn for autumn weddings.

Create a keepsake. No one wants a favor that will just create clutter. So give guests something they'll use — try a picture frame, key chain, fragrance or music box.

Get crazy. Have fun with your favor! A pair of boxers, a bottle of bubbles, comic books or lottery tickets will show your wild side.

Just eat it. Who can resist a favor that's edible. Try a miniature box of good chocolate, gourmet jelly beans or mixed nuts in small canisters. For personalization, attach an embossed ribbon or label with your name and wedding date.

Donate to charity. Make a donation to your favorite organization in honor of your marriage. Print up a card or note to tell guests about your good deed.

Give a tasty beverage. A small bottle of wine or abeer from a microbrewery with a ribbon or label noting your name and wedding date will help guests remember you as they guzzle your gift. You can add onto the favor by supplying them with beer mugs or wine glasses engraved in silver or black ink with your names and wedding date.

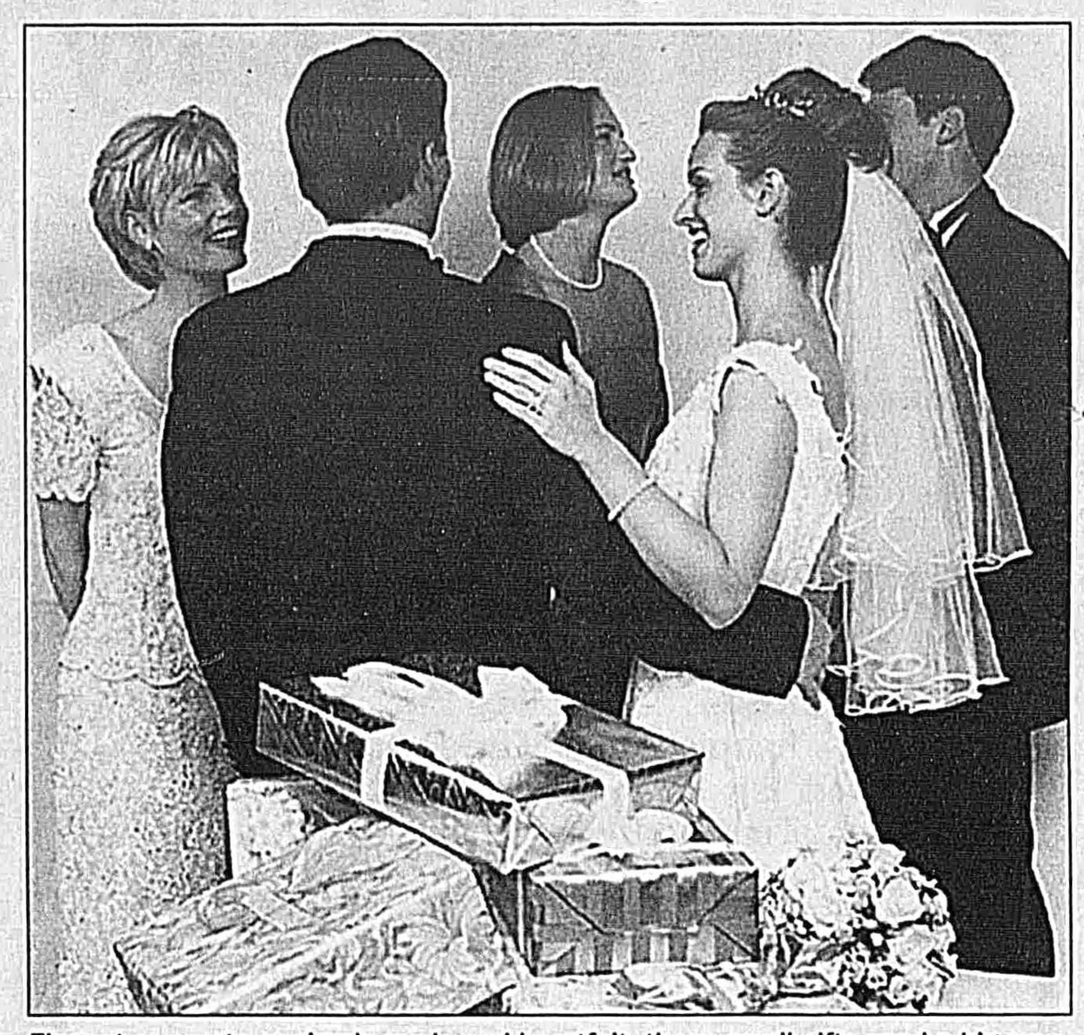

Watch it bloom. Small plants or tree saplings potted in antique or pretty pots are sure to last long after your wedding day. Other ideas are flower bulbs, packets of seeds, a single rose or a flower lei at each place setting.

Your florist can also design centerpieces that break apart so each guest can take home a flower bouquet or small plant. Or, give boutonnieres and corsages to each guest.

Enliven the senses. Entice your guests senses with potpourri in a bag or small vials of perfume or cologne. Or try scented candles or miniature scented soaps.

Write it down. Blank books, journals or notepads in your wedding colors will let your guests record memories of your big day. Or give small plastic calendars or rip-off-the-date ones. You can add on pens, pencils or markers.

Go sporty. Personalized tennis or golf balls will appeal to sports fans. Or try baseball caps or visors.

Elegant or ornate or simply made and heartfelt, these small gifts send a big message, expressing appreciation for your guests' participation on your special day.

Discover wedding customs and traditions

One of the most ancient social customs in the world, weddings are full of customs and traditions. From throwing rice to wearing a veil, have you ever wondered where they came from? Many of these traditions have stood the test of time and evolved from generation. Here's a look at some of the most familiar wedding favorites and a few lesser-known customs:

• In England, it was traditional to bake a ring into the wedding cake as a symbol of bliss and happiness. It was said that the guest whose piece of cake contained the ring could look forward to a year of uninterrupted happiness.

• The custom of throwing rice at newlyweds symbolized fertility. Today, some still throw rice, but confetti, bubbles or rose petals are often substituted for safety and environmental reasons. Rice is easy to slip on and it can be fatal to birds who try to eat it off the ground.

• Cutting the wedding cake together, still a predominant ritual at weddings, symbolizes the couple's unity and shared future.

• Another old English custom was to throw a plate with a piece of wedding cake out a window when the bride returned to her family home after the wedding. If the plate broke, she could expect a happy future with her husband. If the plate remained intact, the future looked grim.

• The tradition of having members of the wedding party dress alike was started with the hopes that the mischievous spirits would be confused and go away.

• The tradition of wearing a veil has a similar origin. Originally, the veil was thought to fool evil spirits by disguisng the bride. It was not until the start of the 19th century in Britain that the veil came to symbolize modesty and chastity.

▪ It is believed that an unmarried male guest who puts a slice of wedding cake under his pillow when he sleeps will increase his chances of finding a mate. An unmarried bridesmaid who does the same will dream about her future husband.

• In the past, if a young man encountered a blind person, a pregnant woman or a monk while on his way to propose to his intended bride, it was believed that the marriage would be doomed if he continued along his path because the images were thought to be bad omens.

• May was an unlucky month to marry in Roman times because the Feast of the Dead and the Festival of the Goddess of Chastity both occured during this month.

▪ Seeing a lamb, frog, spider, black cat or rainbow on the way to the wedding ceremony is a sign of good luck. Seeing an open grave, pig, lizard, a nun or a monk are thought to be bad luck.

Prince charming is alive and well

By George O. Singleton

Like many successful couples, Terry and John seem to prove that opposites attract. John is tall, quiet and only talks when he thinks there is a reason to say something. Terry is eye level with Danny DeVito and has something to say about everything, all the time. Their wedding story is better than most movies you'll see, so if you are an aspiring screenwriter, or simply love a good romance, read on.

Some of you know Terry Waddell-Moenter for the beautiful gift baskets she creates for Brittane's Designs in Gurnee (847-367-7118).

In early 1996 John got Terry's name and phone number from a mutual friend, in one of those "I know someone you might want to give a call" conversations. Terry was in an "off period" with relationships and was okay with enjoying the status of "me, myself and I," but decided that she had nothing to lose by at least talking to John.

They hit it off right away, and found they had many common interests. Soon they were talking 3-5 hours on average, with $1,000 a month phone bills 3/4 each! They even watched TV together from their respective homes in Illinois and California.

By the fall of 1996, Terry, who was using the alias Jennifer Corbin (a great plot twist), thought John was getting a bit too close to her, figuratively speaking, and did not answer her phone for three weeks. John hired a detective to find out "Who is Ms. Corbin?" A little mystery was thrown in when he found a few folks with that name, but not the lady he was looking for.

When Terry decided that she would talk to John again, he did get through and was quite relieved to learn she was all right. That prompted John to question, "Where do we go from here?" He may be quiet but he knows what to say and when to say it. Then he proposed, on the phone. Keep in mind that they had never met, he had not seen Terry's picture or have any idea what she looked like.

Terry said yes, because John was caring, had strong family values, believed in a higher power, had no anti social behaviors and was very patient. She had no idea what he did for a living or how much money he earned.

Although they were engaged, John still did not know that "Jennifer's" real name was Terry. They decided to meet in Las Vegas for the wedding on March 1, 1997. He sent her an airline ticket and she naively arrived at the airport, expecting to fly under the name of Jennifer Corbin but she only had identification for Terry Waddell. After she pulled her "drama queen" routine, the manager agreed to let her buy a ticket in her real name at the same price as the ticket for Jennifer.

Oddly, Terry was not nervous or frightened at her first meeting with John because as she says, "I believe we'd already connected." Their love continues, stronger than ever, in part because, Terry adds, "he treats me like a princess."

At their five-star hotel, John got on his knees and formally proposed. It was one of the few times in Terry's life she says, "I did not have a word to say other than 'yes'" 3/4 after telling him her real name.

So, they met on a Thursday and on Saturday they were married. Terry moved her business from California to Gurnee. She reflects that "It just goes to show you that your destiny is out there. When the time is right, it will come together. He's my best buddy. We just celebrated our 7th anniversary on March 1st." The picture of Terry you see in this article was taken the day they met and an oil portrait of that was her anniversary present this year.

Terry and John

Thankfully, for John and Terry, they never gave up on love until they found one another. Life is not easy but it still can be wonderful.

Top weddings of TV and film

They made us laugh, they made us cry, they even made some of us struggle to program the VCR. The wedding of a favorite television or movie character can sometimes touch you more than the real thing. Here's a closer look at of some classic weddings from television and film.

TELEVISION

- "General Hospital"— Luke and Laura's 1981 nuptials had it all — churchbells, a beautiful gown, a handsome couple so deeply in love. It remains the most-watched TV moment, ever.
- "Friends" — One of television's most beloved couples, Monica and Chandler, finally reached the altar in a crowning moment for the series.
- "Beverly Hills 90210" — Donna and David finally got hitched in the series' last episode.
- "Cheers" — Woody found someone who wanted to know more than his name when he married Kelly.
- "Little House on the Prairie" — Laura grew up and married Almanzo.

THE SILVER SCREEN

- "Father of the Bride" —A father mourns the loss of his daughter to another man in the original flick with Spencer Tracy and the remake with Steve Martin.
- "The Muppets Take Manhattan" — Filled with bears, penguins, chickens and things, who could forget the wedding of Kermit the Frog and Miss Piggy?
- "The Wedding Singer" — You'll be longing for the '80s in this romantic comedy with Adam Sandler.
- "My Best Friend's Wedding" — Its a battle of the beauties as Julia Roberts tries to sabotage Cameron Diaz's wedding.

Prince charming is alive and well

By George O. Singleton

Like many successful couples, Terry and John seem to prove that opposites attract. John is tall, quiet and only talks when he thinks there is a reason to say something. Terry is eye level with Danny DeVito and has something to say about everything, all the time. Their wedding story is better than most movies you'll see, so if you are an aspiring screenwriter, or simply love a good romance, read on.

Some of you know Terry Waddell-Moenter for the beautiful gift baskets she creates for Brittane's Designs in Gurnee (847-367-7118).

In early 1996 John got Terry's name and phone number from a mutual friend, in one of those "I know someone you might want to give a call" conversations. Terry was in an "off period" with relationships and was okay with enjoying the status of "me, myself and I," but decided that she had nothing to lose by at least talking to John.

They hit it off right away, and found they had many common interests. Soon they were talking 3-5 hours on average, with $1,000 a month phone bills 3/4 each! They even watched TV together from their respective homes in Illinois and California.

By the fall of 1996, Terry, who was using the alias Jennifer Corbin (a great plot twist), thought John was getting a bit too close to her, figuratively speaking, and did not answer her phone for three weeks. John hired a detective to find out "Who is Ms. Corbin?" A little mystery was thrown in when he found a few folks with that name, but not the lady he was looking for.

When Terry decided that she would talk to John again, he did get through and was quite relieved to learn she was all right. That prompted John to question, "Where do we go from here?" He may be quiet but he knows what to say and when to say it. Then he proposed, on the phone. Keep in mind that they had never met, he had not seen Terry's picture or have any idea what she looked like.

Terry said yes, because John was caring, had strong family values, believed in a higher power, had no anti social behaviors and was very patient. She had no idea what he did for a living or how much money he earned.

Although they were engaged, John still did not know that "Jennifer's" real name was Terry. They decided to meet in Las Vegas for the wedding on March 1, 1997. He sent her an airline ticket and she naively arrived at the airport, expecting to fly under the name of Jennifer Corbin but she only had identification for Terry Waddell. After she pulled her "drama queen" routine, the manager agreed to let her buy a ticket in her real name at the same price as the ticket for Jennifer.

Oddly, Terry was not nervous or frightened at her first meeting with John because as she says, "I believe we'd already connected." Their love continues, stronger than ever, in part because, Terry adds, "he treats me like a princess."

At their five-star hotel, John got on his knees and formally proposed. It was one of the few times in Terry's life she says, "I did not have a word to say other than 'yes'" 3/4 after telling him her real name.

So, they met on a Thursday and on Saturday they were married. Terry moved her business from California to Gurnee. She reflects that "It just goes to show you that your destiny is out there. When the time is right, it will come together. He's my best buddy. We just celebrated our 7th anniversary on March 1st." The picture of Terry you see in this article was taken the day they met and an oil portrait of that was her anniversary present this year.

Terry and John

Thankfully, for John and Terry, they never gave up on love until they found one another. Life is not easy but it still can be wonderful.

Top weddings of TV and film

They made us laugh, they made us cry, they even made some of us struggle to program the VCR. The wedding of a favorite television or movie character can sometimes touch you more than the real thing. Here's a closer look at of some classic weddings from television and film.

TELEVISION

- "General Hospital"— Luke and Laura's 1981 nuptials had it all — churchbells, a beautiful gown, a handsome couple so deeply in love. It remains the most-watched TV moment, ever.
- "Friends" — One of television's most beloved couples, Monica and Chandler, finally reached the altar in a crowning moment for the series.
- "Beverly Hills 90210" — Donna and David finally got hitched in the series' last episode.
- "Cheers" — Woody found someone who wanted to know more than his name when he married Kelly.
- "Little House on the Prairie" — Laura grew up and married Almanzo.

THE SILVER SCREEN

- "Father of the Bride" —A father mourns the loss of his daughter to another man in the original flick with Spencer Tracy and the remake with Steve Martin.
- "The Muppets Take Manhattan" — Filled with bears, penguins, chickens and things, who could forget the wedding of Kermit the Frog and Miss Piggy?
- "The Wedding Singer" — You'll be longing for the '80s in this romantic comedy with Adam Sandler.
- "My Best Friend's Wedding" — Its a battle of the beauties as Julia Roberts tries to sabotage Cameron Diaz's wedding.

Vista Imaging Center will see you soon

This spring, Vista Health will provide diagnostic testing in a convenient, non-congested outpatient location. The Vista Imaging Center (a department of Victory Memorial Hospital) will offer advanced imaging including PET scans and mammography with second look technology. In addition, enhanced CT scans, ultrasound, bone densitometry, radiology, EKG's and routine blood tests will be available at the center.

Conveniently located to physician's offices in the Gurnee medical corridor and on the same bus route as Saint Therese Medical Center, the Vista Imaging Center will be housed adjacent to the Advanced Oncology Radiation Center at 95 North Greenleaf, Gurnee. With the Vista MR Institute located a half-block to the south, Vista Health is putting diagnostic image testing within minutes of most doctors' offices. The center will offer convenient hours, including evenings and Saturdays, for scheduling ease.

For more information on the Vista Imaging Center, call 847-360-3505.

WHY PAY MORE FOR HEALTH INSURANCE
Introducing the medical saving insurance plan. Major medical with a health savings account. With a Health Savings Account (HSA) you divide the money you would normally spend for health insurance into two parts. Part one: low cost medical insurance to cover the big bills (hospital, surgery, etc). Part two: personal savings account for the small bills (office visits, dental, vision, etc) combines with a PPO access card that has a built in escrow account to pay for routine medical services by a National Third Party Administrator (TPA). For a free quote and information call (847)838-0075.

People Work with People

Written by Scott T. Fleischmann, provided by Integrity Business Solutions

Fredrick the first of Prussia is reported to have said, "The more I learn about people, the more I like my dog." It is true that working with others is often difficult. One of the most difficult aspects of finding a job is working with those who do the hiring.

However, those frustrations may be lessened by understanding those with whom one works. Although every person is different, in many ways we are similar. For example, we all like to feel that others respect us. We all like to be heard: to know that others are listening to us. We all like to feel appreciated.

In these truths are some keys to building better relationships, and subsequently reducing stress in our work alliances. We need those other people who are involved in our work. The other employees with whom we work do tasks that we are not qualified to do. Vendors supply products and services that are needed in our organization. Customers buy our products and services. Therefore, the first step in the process of building better relationships at work is to consider the truth that these people are needed.

Every time I explain this truth, I get several specific objections. Firstly, people will often reply, "I will start to show my need for them when they show me some respect." My reply is always the same. None of us has any control over the way others treat us; we only have control over the way we treat them. Our goal is to improve the way we feel about them, not the way they feel about us.

Our feelings are most often based on the way that we treat them. If we treat them with little respect, we will feel bad about the relationship. If we do not feel that they are needed, we will not feel good about them. If we respect them and treat them with fairness and gentleness, we will feel good about our own behavior. Subsequently we will feel better about them. To that end, we need to modify our behavior. Those feelings will follow.

The second reply I often hear is "Yes I need others in my work, but I don't need 'that' person." My reply is similar to the first objection. We seldom get to choose our peers, vendors, and customers. Even if we could choose them, we would not have any control over their behavior. We do have control over our thoughts and our behavior. Therefore, we need to focus on what we can change.

As stated above, we all want to feel respected and appreciated. However, we cannot force others to demonstrate either. But we can show each person in the workplace the respect, gentleness and appreciation that they deserve. We can hope that at some time they will return the favor. If they do not, we can still sleep soundly, knowing that we have done the best possible in building those relationships.

Pet OF THE WEEK

ELI

Energetic and upbeat, Eli is spunky, loving and much more! Severe allergies from one of his family members brought him to Save-A-Pet. This active guy already understands sit, lay, shake hands and if you point your finger and say "Bang" he plays dead! Quite a smartie, he even goes to the door and barks when nature calls. Very playful, Eli gets along with other dogs and needs an active home. Eli is also up to an intellectual challenge and you therefore must be willing to teach him more tricks. And if you want to take him when you go on trips, Eli loves car rides. Eli is about 3 years old, neutered, heartworm negative and on preventative, up-to-date on routine shots and microchipped.

And don't forget to check our website at www.save-a-pet-il.org for many more cats and dogs, all ages and personalities, just waiting for their new home.
